BUSINESS FOR the Carmel Meter Maids will probably increase dramatically by this time next year. The draft Implementation Program for the Carmel Local Coastal Plan includes provisions to ticket repeat offenders and prohibit employee parking in the commercial district. The implementation program is scheduled for certification by the Coastal Commission in the summer of 1983. For the complete story, see below. (Michael Gardner photo.)

Parking in Carmel may get tougher

By MICHAEL GARDNER

LEGAL SECOND kitchens, a walkway along Scenic Drive, stricter parking regulations and 18-foot height limits on houses near the ocean may be in store for Carmel.

A public hearing on the draft implementation program of the Carmel Local Coastal Plan — which features these and other planning modifications — is to be held by the Carmel Planning Commission at 4 p.m. Dec. 15 at city hall.

Commissioners are to review proposed ordinances that would implement the provisions in the LCP approved by the Carmel City Council in 1980 and certified by the Coastal Commission one year later. The implementation ordinances are required by the Coastal Act.

The planning commission will decide whether the ordinances are sufficent to implement the LCP and make a recommendation to the city council in January. The implementation program must be approved by the council and forwarded to the Coastal Commission by mid-1983, said Planning Director Robert Griggs .

After the implementation program is approved by the Coastal Commission, the ordinances will be incorporated into the city general plan. The general plan is now under revision by a citizens' committee.

General plan consultant Earth Metrics also wrote the draft LCP implementation program.

Except for a few areas, such as the 18-foot height limitations, the implementation program would govern the entire city, Griggs said.

Many of the proposals listed in the 30-page implementation program have been discussed previously by the city, including such issues as second kitchens, a scenic walkway, parking restrictions and water use.

The draft implementation program recommends that the city develop standard use permit policies for applications to build in a newly-created beach district.

The district would generally encompass the Genocide in E. Timor?

Dear Editor:

Over 200,000 Timorese civilians, mostly unarmed Christians, have so far been slaughtered by the Indonesian invader, Gen. Suharto. While the mayhem was going on, this American-backed butcher was invited to the White House where he was welcomed with friendly handshakes and smiles. There's no indication that President Reagan expressed disapproval of Suharto's genocidal behavior in any shape or form.

By turning a blind eye to Suharto's bloody "pacification" of helpless, innocent civilians, we allow this rightist bully to get away with murder. Is this the kind of double standard Reagan tolerates for authoritarian strongmen as UN Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick chillingly expounds on in her book, Dictators and Double Standards?

The mass murder of a third of the population of blood-spattered East Timor isn't being show on television. This makes it difficult to mobilize public opinion in order to save what's left of this sad, battered outpost of Christianity. Carmel's church leaders and Christian broadcasters should help overcome the news blackout by focusing their fury at a double standard that encourages such atrocities.

A natural creek doomed?

Dear Mayor Townsend:

I experienced a shock last week when I returned home from a business trip to discover Junipero, between Ninth and 10th avenues, lined with large sections of concrete pipe. This pipe is evidently meant to be used in covering a natural creek that is also used as a spill-way from the city storm drain.

The setting is natural and quite beautiful in appearance. It is my understanding that the past city policy was to preserve such sites and not to cover them over. The same creek cuts through my back yard and I was told by a city official, when I first moved in nine years ago, that the city preferred that I specifically not put in pipes which would cover the creek.

Questions:

1. Cannot the creek bed be reinforced, rather than installing pipes and completely covering up the area?

2. Could not part of the creek bed remain exposed?

The only visual difference between Carmel, as well as other Peninsula communities, compared with other surrounding areas is our trees, winding streets, visible small creeks and the practice of not "bulldozing" everything out of the way for the sake of utility and conformity.

The natural beauty and pleasant uniqueness of our city is not only beautiful for everyone to look at, but is an economic asset that supports the major tourist trade that keeps the local economy moving.

I believe that it is for everyone's benefit to protect what natural assets that are still in existence, since they cannot be replaced artificially.

This latest move by the city appears to be just one more step towards losing this city's unique qualities.

Enough pine trees?

Dear Editor:

Your article on the Carmel urban forest interested me. The conclusions were conflicting, coming from a manic pine-tree planter, the City Forester, and someone with more perspective, the City Commissioner.

The old Hathaway photos show Carmel as looking more like a shrub-covered sand dune than a national forest. Whoever said it was supposed to look the way it does now?

Our trusty city councilpersons and employees are trying to make it impossible for a lot owner to put up a house over two stories or one that destroys the views of the neighbors and public. At the same time the forester is actually being paid as he spends eight hours a day, five days a week, planting out our views and sunshine, or plotting to do so, with not just "upper-story trees" but sky-high ones.

There are hundreds of them! He's not accustomed to planting them one by one either, he plants them by the fistfull — 2-3-4-5-half a dozen within feet of each other.

Try asking him politely, as you might a neighbor or a neighbor you, to replace a dead pine with an oak so you will have some filtered light at least and he'll say flatly — no. Invite him into your living room to show him the last piece of blue sky being slowly obliterated by two of his now three story high, wall-like Monterey pines. Ask that he please top or thin them and he'll say flatly — no.

"If the trend [old trees dying] continues, we may have no replacements coming up." What is he talking about? It's like Christmas Tree Lane every way I look from our intersection.

Something else to think about: how much does it cost to take down an old pine, and how many pines has D'Ambrosio planted in, say, this last year? Besides not doing what we who live here want, what kind of future indebtedness is this one department creating?

Visiting Nurses grateful

Dear Editor:

Thank you for the article you wrote about the Monterey Peninsula Visiting Nurse Association. You covered all of the material concisely, yet thoroughly.

There were several areas I would like to enlarge on as I feel that the reader who is not knowledgeable about the Home Health Industry would misunderstand. First, the sliding scale fee schedule runs from 50 cents to $46 in the Home Care Program and from 25 cents to $8.50 per hour in the Homemaker Program. Incidentally, our board of directors has voted not to increase the sliding scale in 1983.

Secondly, in 1966 Senator Frank Moss sponsored the Medicare Act. We owe a debt of gratitude to him for having the vision to see how the option of health care in the home would be so important in a time of rapidly rising institutional medical costs.

We have received a good number of calls from people who had not known that skilled care was available in the home! I want to thank you for your role in informing these people of the option of home care. Whether of not they need the service right now, they know that our service will be available when they need it!

Thank you

Clarifies freeway figures

Dear Editor:

Will you please try to correct, through your columns, a falsehood that has been repeated so often that it is now generally accepted as fact.

It concerns the cost of the Hatton Canyon project.

That cost is not $17,000,000.

The Monterey County Transportation Improvement Program for 1981-82 shows the current cost as $8,931,000.

This lower figure was confirmed by Mr. L.M. Orrett, supervising civil engineer for the county Public Works Department, in answer to a direct question at a meeting of the Carmel City Council on Aug. 11, 1982.

The higher figures is the expected increased cost if the project is delayed for another five years.

Carmel school district faces uncertainty in future planning

By ROBERT MISKIMON

THESE ARE difficult days for the Carmel Unified School District and the dedicated Board of Education which has undertaken the task of steering the affairs of that district.

The latest wrinkle on the furrowed brows of this five-member panel comes from the realization that the district will need a greater allocation of water to be able to sell three vacant parcels of land in Carmel Valley, originally purchased years ago as potential sites for new schools.

It's not news that the school district has suffered a steady decline in student enrollment in recent years and that this decline is expected to continue, despite a slight increase in kindergarten enrollment this fall.

So the district wisely has decided to sell the three parcels of land which it owns in the Valley, both because the land itself will not be needed to build those schools and because the district sorely needs the revenue which a sale would generate.

Located in prime, residential development areas of Carmel Valley, the land would — under "normal" circumstances — be quickly snapped up by eager developers who could build homes and turn a tidy profit. But we no longer have any semblance of "normal" conditions of land use, such as existed 10 or 15 years ago.

For one thing, the overall state of the economy has made land speculation even more tricky than it ever was, at the same time it has driven housing costs sky-high. For another, there is virtually no chance that even the most eager developer would gamble on three parcels of land without adequate water supplies to service his development.

And for yet another thing, the uncertainties which surround the final shape of the Carmel Valley Master Plan have added another "unknown" into the land use equation. A moratorium on discretionary building permits in the Valley will remain in effect until that plan is revised and readopted by the board of supervisors. And the final shape of that plan — based on available water supplies and sanitary treatment capacity to serve the Valley — could reflect lower density than the original 1980 master plan.

With this kind of uncertainty, it is little wonder that the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education has started to explore ways it might increase its water allocation, to make those three empty parcels more attractive on the real estate market.

But the ironic thing about all of this, of course, is that if the district succeeds in selling that property for residential development, it may act as a catalyst in bringing about an increase in student enrollment and possibly — a remote possibility, perhaps — generate a need for more school facilities.

The district can handle quite a bit more student enrollment before it would ever need to think about building more schools, since two elementary school campuses have been closed this year because of a steady enrollment decline. And there is little likelihood that development of those three Valley land parcels would generate vast numbers of children, since the home sites which might be built there would probably be in the upper-income, retirement category.

But there is still that possibility, outside the best estimates of statisticians and demographers, that enrollment could swell once again. Latest puzzle for the district is whether the increase in kindergarten enrollment this fall is the start of a trend, or just a one-time phenomenon. The district believes this is not the leading edge of another "baby boom," and perhaps that is so. If that analysis is correct, it would tend to simplify things for the district trustees as they try to chart the future of the schools.

However, there is always the element of uncertainty in these, as in all political, decisions. Particularly in the area of schools and education — which must continually look to the future — decision-making has always been complex and worrisome. For the Carmel Unified School District as it faces the 1980s, the outlook is frustrating and often confusing. So far, the board of education has done a most commendable job in sorting through the maze of facts and information that confronts it, and in acting rationally in the best interests of everyone in the district against often-overwhelming odds.

Trustees tighten down on high school courses

By MICHAEL R. GARDNER

TOUGHER GRADUATION requirements and a renewed emphasis on vocational education programs are in store for Carmel High School students.

The Carmel Unified School District Board of Education was presented with an overview of its recent study session on graduation requirements when it met Tuesday night (Nov. 30).

Trustees have asked several district committees to explore the feasibility of increasing the number of math and English courses required for graduation.

In addition, trustees believe that there should be a more comprehensive district-wide vocational education program for those students who do not plan to attend a four-year university or college.

'These are optimum times for learning and I think we need to recognize that. It is a time when the students begin to make a decision on what they would like to do when they get out into the real world.'

The committees, which consist of teachers, administrators and parents, are expected to review proposed changes and make recommendations by spring. Those recommendations will be revised by the district administrative staff and presented to trustees later in the school year.

"We've got some ideas on what directions we want to go. I think that we will definitely propose some changes in the graduation requirements," district Director of Pupil Personnel Services, Curriculum and Instruction Rich Hawkins told the Pine Cone/Outlook.

"Some of the options I think we will be looking at are increases in the solid academics and more choices," he explained. "Foreign language is not now required. That appears as an elective. We may look at making it a part of the academic solids block."

Two of the major changes now under study are plans to require graduates to have at least four years of English (40 units) and between two and three years of math (30 to 40 units), Hawkins pointed out.

"My guess is we will probably not go to three years in math, but we may go to two," he said.

Currently, Carmel High School students need 35 units of English and 10 units of math to graduate. Students receive five units of credit each semester for the satisfactory completion of the average class. Some classes, depending on length, may offer more or less than the average five units of credit.

The changes in math and English requirements will probably boost to 230 the number of mandatory units necessary for graduation. Currently, a student must earn 220 units to graduate.

Major universities have toughened admissions policies, which is one reason why the local graduation requirements should be stricter, according to Carmel High School Counselor John Graham.

GRAHAM REPORTED to the board in a Nov. 16 study session that selective institutions such as Stanford University, UC Berkeley and the the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) require four years (40 units) of the basic core classes: science, math and English. In addition, two years of a foreign language will also be mandatory.

The major universities and state colleges have also toughened other admissions requirements. A sliding scale based on grade point average and Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) has been raised to make it more difficult to gain admittance. Students not only need high grades, they must also make high scores on the SAT, he said.

The demand for higher grades and top SAT scores will begin with the graduating class of 1984. The requirement that students complete four years of work in the core academics will take efffect with the class of 1986, Graham explained.

State colleges, such as Fresno, San Jose, Hayward and Sacramento, will also require more academic classes from the applicants, he added.

Also Monterey Peninsula and Hartnell Colleges plan to adopt more stringent admissions policies, he said.

Graham told trustees that about 30 percent of CHS graduates enroll as freshmen in a state college or major university. Another 35 percent attend a community college and the other 35 percent enter the work force.

The students who seek jobs instead of a higher education were also the topic of discussion during the Nov. 16 board session.

After the meeting, Chuck Phillips, director of the CHS Regional Occupation Program (ROP), talked to this newspaper about his views on the future of vocational education in the school district.

Students begin to make "life" decisions in the sixth to eighth grades, Phillips believes.

CARMEL HIGH School freshman Kim Germain is one of many ninth graders who will face stricter major university admissions requirements in 1986. On top of that, the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education may also adopt stricter graduation requirements. Above, she talks over plans with CHS Counselor John Graham. (M.G. photo)

Teachers need to recognize this and incorporate some vocational training into the program.

The program would not have to be comprehensive, but just a brief part of the curriculum routine, he said.

"These are optimum times for learning and I think we need to recognize that. It is a time when the students begin to make a decision on what they would like to do when they get out into the real world," Phillips said. "We need to make them aware at this time of what kinds of careers are available."

Phillips explained that the ROP program, which offers students a chance to work in such fields as food service, cosmetology and design, is not enough to reach all of the students.

"I guess my fear is that we are not reaching all of the students and giving them the full opportunity to know about the opportunities. So often they graduate and haven't a direction.

"My feeling is that the intent of everybody is the same. They want the best education for the kids. The interesting thing is how to do it," he continued.

"Realistically, we have a lot of kids who are not going to go through a four year college. Some people make it out as if we are two camps — academic and vocational. It's my personal feeling that all students need marketable skills when they leave high school," Phillips added.

Administrator Hawkins agrees: "We need to prepare the students for the practical realities of the world as well as the solid academics."

As an example, Hawkins pointed out that one of district priorities is to begin a computer education program.

In addition, the administrative committees will also review the possibility of beginning a class that will teach students about practical living, such as balancing the checkbook and filling out income tax forms, Hawkins added.

Here's your chance to hug Santa Claus!

Want to hug Santa Claus?

Well, if you do, the jolly old fellow will mingle at The Crossroads throughout the yuletide season dispensing hugs and the feeling of a traditional Christmas. The Crossroads is at the intersection of Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel.

The Crossroads festivities will get underway on Saturday, Dec. 4 when combined choirs of the 3483rd School Air Force Squadron and Naval Security Group Detachment will sing Christmas carols from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The public is invited to join in.

"Camerata," a well-known San Francisco choir conducted by Dr. Bruce Lamott (harpsichordist with Carmel Bach Festival) will sing carols and less known Christmas songs from 3 to 5 p.m.

The big event will be at 4 p.m. with the arrrival of Santa by horse and antique buggy. The Christmas lights will then be turned on.

On Sunday, Dec. 5 from 1 to 4 p.m. the Carmel Youth Ministery Choir will sing traditional and modern carols. Robert Louis Stevenson School Chamber Singers and Brass Ensemble will present its Christmas program from 4 to 6 p.m.

On Tuesday, Dec. 7 from 4 to 6 p.m. the 3484rd School Air Force Squadron Choir will sing.

Naval Security Group Detachment Choir will perform on Thursday, Dec. 9 from 4 to 6 p.m.

Children's library services increase reported

SERVICES IN the Carmel Harrison Memorial Library Children's Department have increased despite a staff cut last summer, library trustees were told last week.

Library Director Peg Richter reported that the number of programs, circulation and participation has increased over similar statistics compiled during the same time period in 1981.

For the months of June through October of 1982, there were 91 programs offered with 781 children participating. Some children participated in more than one program. In the same months of 1981, there were only 22 programs offered with 281 children in attendance.

A circulation of 9,774 books, records and magazines was reported for the six month period in 1982. For the same months in 1981, circulation was 8,799, Ms. Richter told trustees.

"It's clear from the report that we are serving the children. I think it's clear that we are providing good service to the children of Carmel," Ms. Richter added.

"Any of the mothers who have come to our program have been pleased," she continued. "We have not only maintained the volume of service, but we have improved it."

Trustees last summer decided to lay off the full-time children's librarian in a budget cutting move. Librarian Linda Geroy now evenly divides her work day between the children's and reference departments.

Ms. Geroy offers a variety of special programs for children, including storytimes, puppet workshops, movies and crafts.

"Ms. Geroy has proven herself to be an energetic, resourceful and innovative children's department head," Ms. Richter said.

In a separate development, Ms. Richter told trustees that a city-county library contract was not ready for review.

The county reimburses muncipal libraries for providing services to non-city resident patrons.

Because of budget problems, the county wants to cut those reimbursements to the cities. Carmel received $160,000 in fiscal year 1981-82.

The city-county contract expired this summer, but the agreement was extended on a month-to-month basis until a compromise could be reached. Carmel receives about $13,000 monthly under terms of the extended contract.

The county has presented the managers of Monterey Peninsula cities with a proposed contract, according to Principal Administrative analyst Bob Jasper.

"I hope they get them together, make their decisions and send it up. We're ready," Jasper said.

Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson said the contract is under review and should be ready "very shortly" for presentation to library trustees and the city council.

Carmel ponders coastal plan implementation areas of San Antonio Street between Fourth and Ocean avenues, the south side of Ocean Avenue between San Antonio Street and Del Mar Avenue, all property west of Scenic Drive between Ocean and 13th avenues, and all property west of North San Antonio Avenue and all parcels that border the east side of Scenic Drive.

•

TO OBTAIN a use permit for development in the proposed beach district, an applicant would have to abide by a series of conditions that would be established by the implementation ordinances.

Under the proposed conditions, development would have to preserve maximum public view, be compatible with existing houses, and utilities would have to be installed underground.

The development site would have to be an exisiting lot of record according to the county assessor's rolls for 1979-80. The city could also minimize the required setbacks to not less than three feet in order to provide scenic view or beach access. Utilities would have to be installed underground.

An 18-foot height limitation would mean that "almost all" of the homes on Scenic Drive would become non-conforming uses. Most second story additions would also be prohibited under the height limitation, Griggs pointed out.

The much-discussed, but still stalled plan to develop a walkway along Scenic Drive would be required under the draft implementation program.

The Carmel Forestry Commission has recommended a plan to construct a one-mile long walkway along Scenic Drive between Eighth Street and Santa Lucia Avenue.

A walkway would make a safe passage for pedestrians and help limit beach erosion, said Carmel Forestry Commission Chairman Matt Smith.

"One of the big problems we have is people going down the banks to the beach and creating their own paths," Smith said last summer.

"Many people do not realize there are stairways nearby because they can't see them. By following the path, they would lead to the stairs," he continued.

The city has earmarked $100,000 in the 1982-83 budget for the walkway and reconstruction of an access stairway near 10th Avenue and Scenic Drive.

Reconstruction of the stairway has been scheduled for mid-December, according to City Administrator Doug Peterson. The stairway was nearly destroyed during high tides and a major storm two years ago.

•

THE IMPLEMENTATION program would require that the city complete both projects. In addition, the program would also mandate that a new access ramp be constructed near Ninth Avenue.

New residential construction on lots of record would receive first priority for water in the event that Carmel surpasses its allocation, according to the draft implementation program.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District has allocated about 1,030 ac. ft. of water annually to the city. Carmel now uses 91 percent of that allocation.

Consultant Earth Metrics predicts that the current allocation will not be sufficient to match expected growth. Future growth would have to be tied to water supply.

New development would be subject to a "priority list" if the city matches its total water allocation. Single family residences on lots of record would receive first priority, followed by "development in other districts that increases the permanent housing stock of the city." Last on the list is non-residential development.

The city should also monitor water use to develop an over-all develop program for the city, according to the Earth Metrics recommendations.

The proposal has at least one ally already. Commissioner John Logan advanced a similar recommendatio n to the commission earlier this year. The commission sent the proposal to the council without a specific recommendation. The plan was taken under advisement by the council, but never formally adopted.

Parking in the commercial district would be restricted under proposals included in the draft implementation program.

The program recommends that the city increase parking fines and adopt a policy of repeat ticketing of offenders. Currently, violators are ticketed and then can remain in the parking space all day without fear of a second fine.

In addition, the proposals suggest that the city should adopt an ordinance to prohibit workers from parking in the commercial district, and also expand the number of 20-minute parking spaces at major intersections.

The Carmel General Plan Advisory Committee is scheduled to review similar parking proposals when it meets Dec. 9. The committee is currently studying the circulatiuon element of the general plan.

•

THE PANEL is expected to make recommendations on the revision of the general plan. The implemenation program will also be incorporated into the general plan this summer.

The draft implementation program would legalize "second kitchens," however the city has already begun steps that will end the prohibition against these units.

The planning commission is scheduled to hear a proposal to legalize up to 550 second kitchens when it meets Dec. 8. (See related story, this issue.)

Second kitchens are one way the city can meet requirements to develop low and moderate income housing, as required by state law.

"Because little land area remains for additional new units, land costs are relatively high, and construction costs are high for the units that can be built on presently vacant sites, few options exist to provide new buildings for low income housing," according to the city's LCP consultant.

Second kitchens, as defined by Earth Metrics, are units that "consist solely of portable and readily removable equipment and appliances...built-in, permanent and fixed equipment are not permited."

Applicants would have to obtain a use permit and meet all building and safety codes.

Second kitchens are usually converted garages or rooms in a single family residence. There are about 350 illegal second kitchens in the city, the city planner said.

The program recommends that the city increase parking fines and adopt a policy of repeat ticketing of offenders. Currently, violators are ticketed and then can remain in the parking space all day without fear of a second fire.

The program also recommends that the city loosen its standards on apartments so that more can be constructed.

The draft implementation program suggests that the city change its ordinance governing apartments above retail shops to allow for one apartment per 1,000 sq. ft. of land area. Carmel now limits such units to one per every 2,500 sq. ft. of land area.

Apartments not above retail uses are restricted to one per 1,000 sq. ft. That density would change to one per 666 sq. ft., under the proposed implementation program.

The city should keep its ordinance that only allows apartments, offices and other non-retail uses on second stories.

The general plan advisory committee has recommended that the city amortize second story commercial businesses. However, amortization is not addressed in the draft implementation program.

•

THE CITY SHOULD adopt a new park and open space district that would encompass all city-owned lands for public use such as Devendorf Park, Forest Theater and Mission Trail Park, according to Earth Metrics.

Any development adjacent to the parks should be compatible with existing use and allow for maximum public view. An 18-feet height limit for new buildings and additions would also be required.

A new overlay zone that encompasses small sections of the city should be established to protect potential archaeological treasures, the document recommends.

Development in any of the archaeologically significant areas would have to be approved by the Regional Archaeological Site Survey Office.

THE STUDENT store at Tularcitos School in Carmel Valley is a new program that combines positive behavior incentives with business education. The store opened Tuesday. During a demonstration of how the program would work, Joel Cosseboom showed students one of the "Mustang" T-shirts available while parent volunteer Carol Covell supervised and Keira Schaurer checked to see how many "points" the item will "sell" for. Students who acted as customers were: (from left) Sean Boehlje, Thad Nicholson, Elliot Maiorana, Erin Scholl and Jessica Hinrichs. (M.G. photo.)

Student store mixes rewards with business and learning

THERE IS a new store in Carmel Valley where cash purchases are strictly forbidden, it's only open once a month and the customers were not even born before 1970.

The Tularcitos School student store opened for business Nov. 30 with shelves full of such merchandise as T-shirts, footballs, books and posters.

But the primary purpose of this store is not to make profit or even to provide students with their own place to shop.

The Tularcitos School student store combines a new good behavior reward program with teaching of money management and business techniques.

"The school store is our way of motivating students toward — and reenforcing students for — the accomplishments of goals in self direction and responsibility. As we use the store to capitalize on positive behavior, it can also be a means of applying classroom skills," Principal Mary Jane Stanford said.

Teachers set their own standards for how students can earn "points" toward purchases at the store. The standards usually include consistently good behavior and turning homework in promptly, Ms. Stanford explained.

When the student accomplishes a stated goal, the teacher records the points in the youngster's personal bank book. The student may choose to spend his points at the end of the month or save the credits to make a larger purchase the next time the store is open.

"Teachers will be utilizing the school store savings program as a tool for the application of math concepts taught at each grade level," Ms. Stanford said. "Children will keep track of their savings and expenditures. Older children will keep the books and manage the store under the supervision of parent volunteers."

Parent volunteers are an important part of the program. They not only help supervise the store, but they help make items for sale and contact area businesses for donations.

Students in grades one through five participate in the program. Kindergarten students are not a part of the project. The store is only open the last school day of each month.

Parents interested in helping out, or merchants who would like to donate items, may contact the school at 659-2276, or parent coordinator Theresa Brodsley at 659-2331.

WORK IS scheduled to begin in February on the final phase of a 20-year program to underground utilities in the central commercial district of Carmel. This utility pole on Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues is one of several scheduled for removal.

Undergrounding of utilities in downtown to start in '83

THE FINAL phase of a 20-year plan to underground utilities in most of downtown Carmel will begin in February.

Notices that the work will begin have been mailed to commercial property owners and store managers on Dolores and Mission streets between Sixth and Fifth avenues, and on Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues.

Landlords have been notified that they will be required to have all new conduits and conductors installed by Feb. 28. New equipment is required to connect with the utility lines that will be installed underground.

Landlords are only required to pay the costs of the new conduits and conductors. Other costs of the undergrounding project will be borne by the three utility companies — Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Pacific Telephone and Monterey Peninsula TV, according to Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson.

The utility companies are required to pay for most of the undergrounding costs under terms of their franchise agreements with the city of Carmel. The city does not pay any of the costs except for notification to the landlords, Peterson said.

However, the city will take action against landlords who refuse to install the new equipment.

"In the event that such facilities have not been installed by (Feb. 28), the city may order the disconnection of all utilities (electricity, telephone and cable TV) serving your property. Obviously, this is not desirable for you or the city," Peterson wrote in a mailed notice to landlords and store managers.

Peterson said he cannot estimate the cost of the work because it depends on the contractor the landlord hires and what kind of equipment is necessary.

The lead agency for the project is PG&E, which will do most of the work.

The actual construction work will begin in February and be completed by October, according to PG&E District Marketing Supervisor Robert Eustice.

Once the landlord has the conduits installed, PG&E will install the new wires, hook the system up and reset all of the meters at no charge, he explained.

The Carmel City Council ordered the undergrounding project in the fall of 1963. The commercial district was divided into four separate areas that would be undergrounded in phases. The first phase was completed in 1968, the second in 1973 and the third in 1978.

Work on the fourth and final phase is ahead of schedule, Eustice said.

"At this point, I'd say we're ahead of the goals. We're ahead of schedule," he said.

The boundaries for the undergrounding project are irregular, but generally follow Seventh Avenue to the south, Fifth Avenue to the north, Junipero Avenue to the east and Monte Verde Avenue to the west.

Landlords who would like more information, may call Eustice at 375-3117, John Hamby of Pacific Telephone at 424-0296, or Wayne Rodrigues of MPTV at 649-9100.

Carmel considers multiple tickets

If the site is archaeolgically significant, adequate mitigation measures must be taken before any development could occur.

The implementation program does not include specific recommendations for the Patterson property, which remains "in limbo," according to Griggs.

Disposition of the beach front Patterson property, which is between Ocean and Fourth avenues, has been a controversial question since 1965.

The city and owner Jack Patterson have reached a compromise that would allow the development of three houses on the property. The sites would be between 8,000 and 9,000 sq. ft., Griggs said.

The Coastal Commission has refused to agree with plans for development of the Patterson property because of what it deems insufficient setbacks, Griggs said.

In addition, the Coastal Commission believes the city should buy the property. The council has rejected that proposal three times, Griggs pointed out.

The Patterson property will eventually be included in the LCP once a "planning document" for the area is completed.

Griggs said he has not had time to complete the proposal.

Persons who wish to review the draft implementation program of the Carmel LCP may view copies at city hall.

A PROPOSED parking garage on the Sunset Center vacant lot (above) has placed the Carmel Cultural Commission in a ticklish position. An obscure portion of the city code gives the commission authority over the city council in any approval of the plan. (M.G. photo.)

Cultural commission in a precarious position

By MICHAEL R. GARDNER

AN OBSCURE portion of the Carmel City Code has placed the cultural commission in a rather ticklish situation.

Commissioners were told last week that the city code gives the cultural commission final say in any city council plan to construct a parking facility on the Sunset complex vacant lot, southeast corner of San Carlos Street and Ninth Avenue.

The commission serves as an advisory board to the council. Its members are appointed by the council and most of the decisions, such as awarding cultural grants to non-profit organizations, require council approval.

However, City Administrator Doug Peterson has discovered a portion of the city code that actually gives the cultural commission authority over the council on a controversial and politically-troublesome issue — parking at Sunset Center.

The discovery was unveiled Nov. 23 to commissioners, who spent nearly 30 minutes trying to find a tactful way to tell its boss (the council) that they want some, but not total, authority over the parking project plan.

The council had asked the commission to make a recommendation on what to do about the sticky portion of the city code.

Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler told commissioners that council minutes reflect that Councilman David Maradei has asked: "Are you prepared to assume the responsibility?" of making a final decision on the parking proposal.

The question sent commissioners in search of a statement that would serve as a compromise. On one hand, commissioners did not want total control, yet they are fearful that the council may not consult them on plans for the proposed project.

"Is there a stronger word than consultation?" Commissioner Natalie Murray asked.

Commissioner George Gore was stronger in his statements. "I think prior approval by our commission is necessary. Yes, we are willing to accept that responsibility, " he said.

Mrs. Murray disagreed: "I think that's too strong. I think somehow we need to use language that says we just want to share in the decisions."

Gore then agreed that the language should be "softened."

Commissioner Jean White suggested that they answer Maradei's question affirmatively. "Then we would put the ball back in their court. If they truly don't want to see us more involved, they could ask us another question."

•

'WE'RE RESPONSIBLE for this property so shouldn't we be consulted?" asked Commissioner Suzanne DeClercque.

Commissioner Roger Fremier pointed out that the panel was not asked whether they favored the establishment of a recreation committee. The council has appointed a separate committee, although the cultural commission is reponsible for the recreation activities at Sunset Center.

Commissioner Lewis Heniford said he wants authority over the decision, but "the authority I am referring to is the right to be heard."

The council can also simply choose to change the city code so that the commission no longer has control over the proposed parking lot, Heniford added.

The commission unanimously agreed that they "are willing to assume the responsibility" of a decision on Sunset Center parking. However, Gore and Dr. Heniford will also write a letter to the council in explanation of the commissioner's feelings that they are primarily concerned that they may not be consulted on the proposal.

Carmel City Administrator Doug Peterson, contacted after the meeting, said he could not speculate when the council will address the commissioners' response.

Councilman David Maradei told the Pine Cone/Outlook that he understands the commissioners' dilemma.

"It was a rhetorical question. I don't see a problem yet. We have the dollars. If they opposed a parking lot at Sunset Center, and I understand they do not, then we would have a problem," he said.

"The goals of the cultural commission and the city council seem to be the same and we'll make every attempt to work with them and keep the responsibility of what happens at Sunset Center with the cultural commission," Maradei added.

The council has delayed any action on parking until an architect's report is completed on the feasibility of a garage underneath the proposed library annex, northwest corner of Lincoln Street and Sixth Avenue.

One Sunset Center plan under consideration by the council encompasses the construction of a three-level facility on the vacant lot. The first two tiers would be for parking. The third tier level with San Carlos Street would be covered by a park.

Mission Ranch flood questions face planners

THE CARMEL Planning Commission will be asked by Mission Ranch residents to tighten height limitations and controls on building in the floodplain before the unincorporated area can be annexed to Carmel.

The commission will review a proposal by Planning Director Robert Griggs to revise the residential zone (R-1) of the city when it meets at 4 p.m. Dec. 8 at Carmel City Hall.

Proposed policies on pre-zoning of the 60-acre Mission Ranch area are also incorporated in Griggs' plan. The area is proposed for annexation to the city.

Elizabeth Bell, president of the pro-annexation Concerned Citizens of Mission Ranch, told the Pine Cone/Outlook that the group will continue to press for strict building height controls and prohibition of development in the floodplain.

"I think that one of the things people like so much about this area is the feeling of openness," Mrs. Bell said. "People have enjoyed their views and don't want to see this area spoiled."

The county has continued to allow second story additions and new two-level houses in the area despite complaints from the group, Mrs. Bell pointed out.

The flooding of the Carmel River lagoon area Nov. 19 is a perfect example why the Concerned Citizens of the Mission Ranch are against more development in the floodplain, Mrs. Bell said.

"There should be no further development in the floodplain," she said.

The Nov. 18 storm caught county officials by surprise. There was a lengthy delay in opening a channel from the Carmel River to the ocean. The result was area-wide flooding and property damage.

The recent flooding will not be a factor in the proposed revisions for the R-1 zone, Carmel Planning Director Robert Griggs stressed.

"No, I don't think it will change it that much. It just proves we're right," Griggs said.

In the Mission Ranch area, Griggs' proposals include an 18-foot height restriction, and stipulate that no further subdivision of property should be allowed. New development in the floodplain would be restricted to recreational uses such as the existing tennis courts and stables. Future recreational uses could include a golf course or day use park.

•

THE CITY council has asked the commission to develop pre-zoning policies for the Mission Ranch area before annexation proceeds.

The general boundaries for the area are: Carmel River to the south, 100 feet west of Camino Real to the west, Santa Lucia Avenue to the north and the Hodges property to the east.

The Mission Ranch area will not be the only topic of discussion when the commission convenes Dec. 8.

Griggs also proposes the legalization of "second kitchens," and "granny housing."

Second kitchens, long a controversial subject in Carmel, would be allowed under Griggs' pre-zoning proposal.

The Carmel Local Coastal Program authorizes up to 550 second kitchens. (See related story, this issue.)

A second kitchen is usually a room in the main house or an attached garage that has been renovated into a rental unit. Griggs has estimated that there may be as many as 350 illegal second kitchens in the city.

Griggs proposes that second kitchens be limited to three per city block. One parking space would have to be provided for each, under his recommendation.

Applicants would also have to obtain a city use permit and meet all city building codes. The main residential unit would have to be owner-occupied.

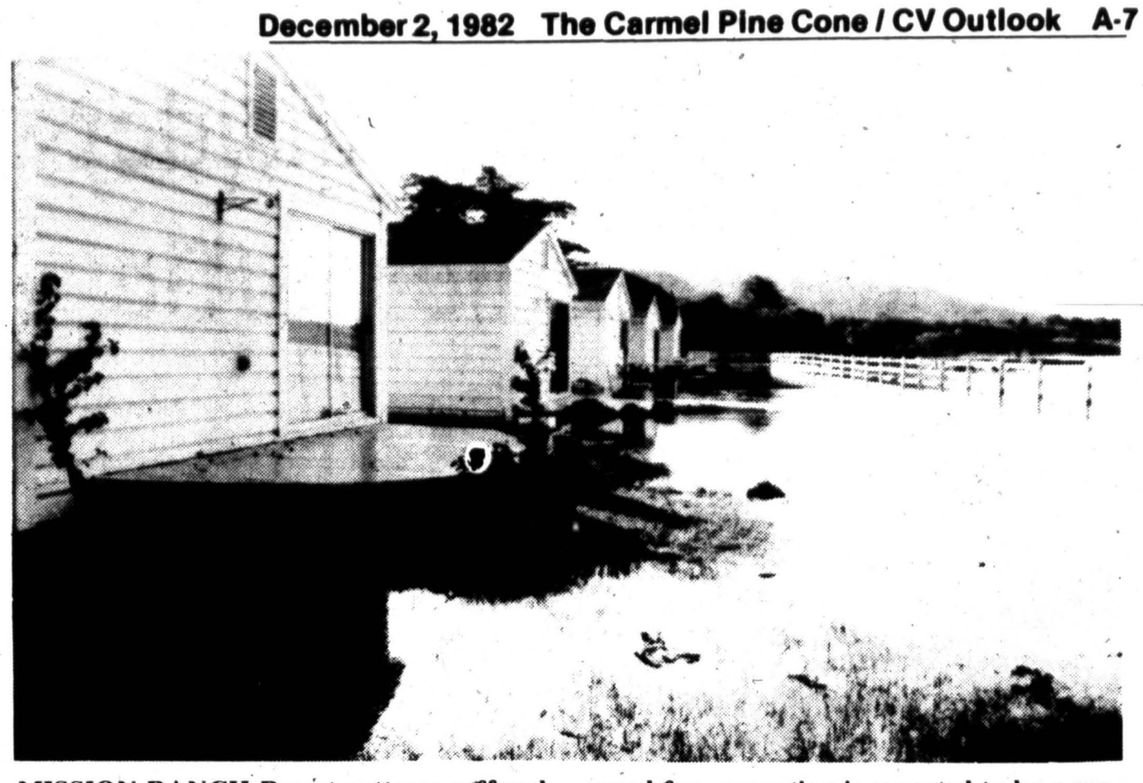
There would also be a limit to the number of persons allowed to live on a lot if it has a second kitchen. The number would be limited to four residents per 4,000 sq. ft. lot, Griggs said.

That provision means that a family of four living on a 4,000 sq. ft. lot could not have a second kitchen. If there were three members of the household, the second kitchen could only be rented to one person.

Griggs also recommends a series of policies to govern granny housing, which are small units rented to senior citizens.

Under his plan, the units could only be rented to persons 60 or more years old. Granny houses would be restricted to 640 sq. ft. in size and could only be developed on lots of 10,000 sq. ft. or more.

The commission reviewed Griggs' proposals in a brief session Nov. 17, but continued the public hearing until Dec. 8 to give planners and members of the public an opportunity to study the recommendations.



MISSION RANCH Resort cottages suffered little damage during the recent flooding after a major storm hit the area Nov. 18-19. Flood protection for the Mission Ranch area proposed for annexation is expected to be a major topic of discussion during the Dec. 8 Carmel Planning Commission meeting. (M.G. photo.)

CVPOA board to meet Dec. 8 in Valley

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 8 at Carmel Middle School, about one mile east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road.

Carmel Valley Road will be a major topic of discussion. Members are scheduled to receive a status report on the progress of a beautification campaign on the median strip. There will also be discussion on complaints about possible illegal commercial signs adjacent to the road.

The CVPOA will also nominate two members for consideration of appointment to the Upper Carmel Valley Advisory Committee.

A date for the annual meeting will also be scheduled.

Protest hearing scheduled

A protest hearing on the proposed boundaries for the Carmel River Management Zone originally scheduled for Dec. 6 at Tularcitos School has been postponed by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

The session was canceled because the district consultant has not completed a final report on the proposed boundaries, according to water district manager Bruce Buel.

The board will schedule a new protest hearing when it meets Dec. 13, Buel added.

Supervisors to consider one-way Scenic traffic

SCENIC ROAD may soon become a one-way street — at least for a 30-day trial period.

The Monterey County Public Works Department will develop a proposal to turn Scenic Road into a one-way street from its point of origin near Carmel Point to the city limits at Santa Lucia Avenue.

The proposal is expected to be presented to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Dec. 7.

The results of that session will be reported to the Carmel City Council during its regularly scheduled meeting at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 7 at city hall.

Although county officials indicate some kind of change will be made, they are still uncertain which way the traffic will be routed and whether the proposal would encompass the entire street or just a specified portion, according to Mo Orrett, county public works department supervising civil engineer.

"For years there has been discussion of a one-way street to essentially reduce traffic, allow space for pedestrians and perhaps to have some better control over the large vehicles that use the Scenic Road, Orrett told the Pine Cone/Outlook this week.

Supervisors have agreed in the past that a one-way program is workable, however they "are split 50 percent for northbound and 50 percent southbound," he said.

Orrett said any plan would include a 30-day trial period.

"It's all very complicated and a lot of it depends on the cooperation of the city of Carmel," he said.

But the city may not be in the mood to cooperate, according to City Administrator Doug Peterson.

Peterson pointed out that the council has "adamantly opposed" past plans to route the traffic one-way northbound to Santa Lucia.

The city-owned portion of the road is one-way southbound between Eighth and Santa Lucia avenues.

Peterson pointed out that past councils have adopted the position that one-way northbound traffic should not meet one-way southbound traffic at Santa Lucia Avenue.

"That just creates tremendous problems," he said.

•

IN OTHER action, the council will be asked for a second time whether it wants to participate in the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District conservation kit distribution program.

The council rejected a similar plan in the summer of 1981 because members felt it was not an appropriate use of government funds.

Under the program, residents would receive a conservation kit in the mail that includes a water bag for the toilet bowl, a shower head restricter to slow the flow of water, dye pills to determine whether there are leaks and literature on conservation methods.

It would cost about $4,200 to mail the kits to about 3,500 homes in the city, according to water district manager Bruce Buel.

However, a special state grant will pay 50 percent of those costs, Buel pointed out.

"We're not trying to force the city to do anything," Buel explained. "We just want to inform them that the program is available."

In a similar program this September in Seaside, nearly half of the residents installed the toilet bowl bags and another 25 percent utilized the shower head restricters, Buel said.

If similar participation is accomplished in Carmel, this city could save between 5 and 7 percent of its annual residential water supply. That would total between 30 and 50 ac. ft. There are 325,851 gallons in an acre foot, he said.

There are also several other agenda items for concil consideration Dec. 7.

City Atty. George Brehmer is scheduled to ask the council to extend the franchise agreement with Monterey Peninsula TV for a couple of months.

The agreement expires at the end of this year, however Brehmer has not had time to prepare a new contract. The original franchise was awarded 20 years ago, Peterson said.

Under terms of the franchise agreement, the city receives four percent of the gross revenues that the cable company generates in Carmel. Peterson anticipates the agreement will add $12,000 to the city budget in 1982-83.

Peterson is expected to present a report on the possible amortization of large business signs in the city.

The council requested the report after it approved a large sign for the front of Hanson Galleries (formerly The Burlwood Gallery), north side of Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Dolores streets.

Peterson will also notify the council that a replacement needs to be found for City Treasurer Jack Skillicorn, who has resigned after being elected Monterey County Auditor-Controller.

THE COUNTY and the city may not be able to agree on whether the county portion of Scenic Road should be restricted to a one-way northbound or southbound route, but Fido knows that the only way to go is to the beach. Supervisors and the city council are scheduled to convene in separate sessions Dec. 7 to discuss traffic routes on Scenic Road from its point of origin near Carmel Point to the city limits at Santa Lucia Avenue.

Church appoints wedding official

The Monterey Peninsula Unitarian Church has announced the appointment of Francy Maring as wedding coordinator. She will supervise a variety of wedding options from the simplest wedding to a wedding that includes cake and champagne for guests afterwards, to an elaborate wedding followed by a reception catered by church members or caterers of the couple's choice.

The church, built in 1979, is located on a wooded hillside amid Monterey pine and live oak on upper Aguajito Road at the Carmel Hill Interchange of Highways 1 and 68.

Anyone wishing to use the church's building can contact the wedding coordinator at the church (624-7404) to make arrangements.

Friends of Hidden Valley to refurbish a dormitory

The Friends of Hidden Valley Music Seminars have organized a committee for the purpose of refurbishing the dorm building at the Hidden Valley location. Through already scheduled and anticipated rental of this facility, when not in use by the seminars, Hidden Valley will realize additional needed income.

The Friends plan to accomplish the refurbishing in two phases. The first phase will be to upgrade the condition of the dorm rooms by some painting, purchasing of new window coverings with monies earned from the Friends' Boutique, and by requesting donations of twin-size bedspreads, mattress pads, plastic mattress covers, fitted sheets, throw rugs, and lamps.

The second phase will be a more extensive reconditioning of the facility, and is in the planning stage. The Friends welcome and will appreciate any contributions of those items listed, as well as paint brushes and other painting tools. Monetary contributions are also welcome.

CREW meets

The monthly meeting of the Carmel River Watch Crew will be held at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 2 at the Baptist Church, southeast corner of Carmel Valley and Schulte roads.

Members are scheduled to discuss the Nov. 18-19 flooding at the mouth of the Carmel River. They will also talk about future river management plans.

Business Beat

Business board's lengthy agenda

By FLORENCE MASON

"THE LENGTHIEST agenda I can ever remember." That was City Administrator Doug Peterson's comment about the Nov. 18 meeting of the Business License and Code Review Board. There were 17 items, most of them applications for new business licenses. The lengthy agenda was partly explained by the loss of one meeting to the Veterans' Day holiday the week before, but as board secretary Karen Love said: "November is always a busy month for us." All those eager new business owners wanting to get under way before the Christmas shoppers descend?

The application that aroused the most discussion was for an "in and about business." Martha Gleason, born and raised on the Peninsula, sought — and won— approval for an instant reproduction photography business, "Smile Pretty."

Miss Gleason's plan is to contract with local cocktail lounges or restaurants in order to walk through those establishments with her camera, taking pictures of guests. She showed the BLCRB a folder with her Smile Pretty logo and a picture set inside. She commented — and here the members of the license board began squirming — that this type of business has been "extremely successful in Vegas, Reno and many smaller tourist-oriented places." She added: "It's publicity for the bars and restaurants; their names will be in the folder as the place where the picture was taken."

Board members' questions focused on the solicitation of business, the need for consent from the guests, and the possibility that granting this license would open up the territory for others. Miss Gleason innocently added fuel to the fire when she said she was sure there would be "people behind me, because it's a good business." But she also assured the board that she wants it to work and "wouldn't do anything flashy. I want people — everyone — to be comfortable with it."

Not everyone on the board was comfortable with it. Planning committee chairwoman Sandy Swain said she was "very wary." Referring to the licenses already granted to two firms offering flowers for sale to restaurant guests, Miss Swain said it was annoying to be interrupted while at dinner. She also said: "We can't put Carmel into the same bag as Vegas and the others."

Police Capt. Bob Fischer struck a conciliatory note when he said he didn't see it as a problem; "Many families do that (take pictures) for themselves when they are having a family gathering in a local restaurant."

The discussion might have gone on for some time. However, Carmel City Attorney George Brehmer helped to bring it to a close when he said the board doesn't have any discretion to vote against the application as long as it qualifies under terms of licenses for "in and about" photographers, of whom there are a number in Carmel.

The board did take advantage of the opportunity to impose certain conditions on the activities of "Smile Pretty." They were: that Miss Gleason not make contacts with potential customers on the streets of the business district; that no photographs be taken without advance consent from the subject; and that there must be a written agreement with each bar or restaurant into which she will come.

Mis Gleason plans to dress in a tuxedo, and said that inasmuch as she is the sole person involved, she probably won't be able to cover more than five local restaurants. She said she already has agreements with several in Monterey, where she expected to be starting the next day.

Urged by planning director Bob Griggs to be "discreet," she assured the board that her business would be kept very low-key. "I just want to give people something to remember." In the vote that followed, only Miss Swain went on record as opposed; the license was granted, with the restrictions.

The new businesswoman has lived in Carmel and Monterey. She attended Larkin Elementary School and Monterey High, then graduated from MPC with a pre-legal major. She has had six or seven years' experience as a cocktail and restaurant worker, where she saw this type of business in action.

In her spare time, one of Miss Gleason's interests is the Big Buddy organization; she is looking forward to having two little girls to befriend very soon.

At the close of the Nov. 18 meeting, The Business License and Code Review Board decided to schedule a discussion on "in and about" business licenses (businesses not having one specific location in the city but offering goods or services in and about). The discussion could lead to recommendations from the board to the city council for changes in the ordinance governing such licenses. Planning Director Griggs suggested that it was not the contractors, delivery trucks, etc. that the board was concerned about; it was the "unique" businesses.

AND THIS ONE IS FOR SALE

Turning from some of the new business owners to a couple who are about to retire: a "mini health supermarket" is for sale. And the story behind that fact is another of the tributes to local shop owners (and local customers) that we delight in reporting.

The Carmel Health Shop, on San Carlos south of Ocean, has been put on the market by owners Jeannie and Mario San Carlo. The business has been there for 15 years, selling not only vitamins, herb teas and other packaged goods but also fresh vegetables, fruits, meats, breads, pet food, magazines and books. The official word is that the San Carlos are "retiring" and moving to southern California.

JEANNIE AND Mario San Carlo, owners of the Carmel Health Shop for 15 years, plan to sell their business and retire to Southern California. (M.G. photo.)

Does this sound like retirement?: Jeannie, who has been an astrologer for 35 years, will be getting her doctorate in nutrition at Donsbach International University of Nutrition in Huntington Beach. "I have a couple of books to write," she adds. Chances are that the books will combine her two main interests — astrology and nutrition.

Mario San Carlo wants to get a degree in homeopathic medicine. "You can't do these things and run a store!" his wife commented.

There is an even stronger pull to southern California. "Our children want us to be near them. Although we're all independent, we are also a very close family. I want to share in the experience of raising our grandchild, and to make music with her."

Mrs. San Carlo said it took the couple nine months to make the decision to sell the store. She said: "The community has been so loving and supportive and helpful. The patrons have become our friends, some of them stopping by every day." She hopes that Don Bowen, realtor with IRA, who has the listing, will be able to find new owners who will preserve that same atmosphere at the Carmel Health Shop.

AMONG THE OTHER CHANGES

With so much activity on the Carmel business beat, perhaps the best we can do this week is to mention briefly some of the most interesting changes.

•Jerry and Joan Winters, well-known on this business beat as the owners of a number of stores, have sold the last two of their businesses. Perhaps even more interesting is what they will be doing in the future: after a brief vacation the couple will take up a full-time ministry as officers in the Salvation

Army. Those who know of their past involvement in show business may not be surprised to learn that they will be specializing in music and evangelism for the Army. "We've felt called for a long time and feel that the Salvation Army is doing a fine job," Winters said.

He also commented that "it is harder to get rid of things than to acquire them." However, the Winters found a couple eager to take over both their Joan and Jerry Gallery in the court near Lobos Lodge and the Winters Gallery on Dolores Street. They are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carlisle of Los Angeles and Tahoe. "They are terrific people," Jerry Winters said. "They'll be a great addition to the peninsula."

The Carlisles, Winters suggested, may expand from the local galleries into Palm Springs and Scottsdale. They do plan to move to this area and they will keep the Winters name alive in Carmel with "Winters West" and "Winters Gallery," both names being approved by the BLCRB.

•"Peter's European Foods" will become "Fifth Avenue Deli" under the new ownership of Alberta Mathewson. Her goal is to fulfill a need for "something different" in the way of food, she said.

To that end, Ms. Mathewson will expand the store's inventory to include some marinated items, home-cooked smoked chicken, salads and other foods. Eventually, she would like to put in a small oven to facilitate a catering business, but that would be another day and another hearing before the BLCRB.

Alberta Mathewson was born and raised in Monterey. She worked for about five years in banking in San Francisco and had been looking in that area for a delicatessen to operate: "No particular place, just the right place." Her sister, who lives in Carmel, told her about Peter's (on Fifth Avenue just east of the post office) and it seemed "just right." She said: "I've been cooking and baking all my life. My mother was manager of the Carmel school district cafeterias until my father retired, so I'm familiar with food operation."

She leads an active life away from business too: racquetball, tennis, bicycling. And she loves plants.

★★★

•It seems like a very quick change for one Doud Arcade shop — from "Nautilus" to "Variations of Carmel." New owner Reynold Watson, represented at the license board meeting by realtor Larry Moraga, will be putting the space to much the same use, with imports from Thailand and Asia.

Watson has had an interest in a similar shop in Palm Springs — Variations Palm Springs — with his brother and sister-in-law. He'll be the sole proprietor here and will move to this area and run it himself, Moraga said.

Moraga reported that Watson did not plan any extensive remodeling, but did believe in opening up display cases so that customers can handle the objects. Sandy Swain commented: "I hope he has someone good to clean the brass!"

★★★

•Also in the Doud Arcade: the wood-working studio of Leif Utegaard has moved to Cannery Row and it will be replaced by a shop selling "nice small things made out of wood."

New owner Lambert Ross has a legal residence here but lives in Seattle at present. He has turned over the running of the new shop to manager Barbara Podoloff, who said that Ross wants to live here eventually. "He comes every month or so," she said.

Miss Podoloff worked for Ross in a similar situation in San Diego for several years. She has also done something very different: she worked in an import car garage as a service writer and parts order person. "I love it here," she said, sounding delighted with the change and her new responsibilities. She is single and lives in Monterey. Born and raised in San Diego, she majored in political science at UC Berkeley, has lived abroad and still loves to travel.

As an example of "Sun Country's" wares, Miss Podoloff said there will be vases that are turned on lathes as well as wood carvings and other small wood products.

AND AT THE BARNYARD ...

We promised to tell you more about Alex Albers, owner of Country Cousin Fashions, which replaced Coover's Clothing in the Barnyard. To begin with, a correction is in order: my assumption that Alex was short for Alexander was incorrect; Alex Albers is a woman. She is married, has two sons at Robert Louis Stevenson School and will continue to commute to Reno, where she has had a similar store for seven years.

Country Cousin Fashions, like its Reno counterpart, "Albers Country Cousin," features young women's contemporary clothes. "I hadn't planned to have another shop," Mrs. Albers said, "but this opportunity came up. We love the Barnyard."

The family also loves the area. "We didn't even mind the rain," Mrs. Albers said, "Perhaps it kept some customers away, but it gave me time to do other things."

One of the reasons why the Alberses fit into the area so well is that they are a golfing family. In fact sons Hap (a senior at RLS) and Billy, a sophomore, already know what they want to be: professional golfers. They are working with pro Ben Doyle at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club.

"We came to visit, and stayed," Mrs. Albers said. Her husband went into real estate, the boys headed for the golf course, and she opened "Country Cousin Fashions."

WARNER MOVES ACROSS THE STREET

Harley Warner, formerly branch manager of the Carmel office of Northern California Savings (now Great Western) has joined the National Bank of Carmel, just across the street on Dolores.

"I'm excited about it!" he said. "I was anxious to work for a local bank, to be with a company that is locally oriented, and I'm delighted to get back into lending." Warner, who said he is impressed with the National Bank of Carmel's operation, was named vice president and loan officer, capping a career of more than 25 years in banking. After 10 years with Northern California here, Warner had worked for the same company in Santa Rosa, returning to the Peninsula in 1979.

Warner and his wife Clarissa (known within her family as Clicquot) live near the mouth of the Valley. Their three children are all away at college: Howard at U.C. Berkeley, Elizabeth and Phoebe at Davis.

With the young people scattered, Mrs. Warner took on a job with the Carmel library at its Sunset Center annex.

MY POCKET'S FULL OF NOTES

The city's efforts to clear up unpaid business license fees have borne fruit: only two businesses failed to repond to final notices about their delinquent fees. Neither is currently in operation; nevertheless, both will be officially notified that they aren't licensed and therefore can't do business in Carmel.

★★★

Ben Nysewander, who has had an antique business in Orange County for 20 years, is expecting some of his southern California clients to follow him to Carmel. He is the owner of Antique Traders, opening on Mission between Fourth and Fifth avenues later this month.

Nysewander, who has lived in Pebble Beach for about a year, will be offering European objects of art, items "for the collectors' market."

The space became available when Jim Dougherty closed his House of Steins in Del Dono Court and became the new owner of Spencer's on Ocean Avenue. And so the game of musical stores continues ...

The Conscience of Carmel

City ponders extra position

By GUNNAR NORBERG

WHAT'S MOST important in Carmel?

Is it looking to see if signs are exactly as high or wide or if the wording on the signs is precisely as approved by the City Planning Commission? Or is it going methodically around looking inside people's houses to see if there's an extra hot-plate or two-burner somewhere? Or to see if some home owner has rented out his house for a shorter period than a new city law seems to allow?

What's the point, you might ask, for asking rhetorical questions like those? Doesn't the city have a sign law? And doesn't it seem to be, by and large, working well enough? And isn't the city already in the process of legalizing hundreds of so-called "second kitchens" to provide housing for low or moderate-income persons as state law requires? Also isn't the validity of that short-rental law to limit a home owner's rental options still in some considerable legal doubt?

The answer to all those hypothetical questions is generally "yes." So then you might persist, why raise the questions at all?

The reason for posing the questions is that a new committee, called the Committee to Study Changing Uses in Carmel, has proposed to the city council that a new city job be created and that its title be Enforcement Officer. The Changing Uses Committee appears to be composed of leading local businessmen and commercial property owners, and it is chaired by Sandy Swain, who heads the city planning commission.

City Administrator Douglas Peterson has tried to determine the kind of duties which the proposed Enforcement Officer would have, and has prepared a memorandum mentioning such tasks as checking up on signs around the city, and looking around in the residential areas for such possible deviations as extra kitchen facilities or for what are called shorter-than-allowed rentals by home owners of their homes.

JUST TWO DAYS before you read these words, the city council was due to consider — at a special meeting, Nov. 30 — what to do about the Enforcement Officer proposal. Since this meeting had not yet taken place, as I write this article, I cannot report its results. However, the fact that it was immediately in the offing, is what leads me to go into this detail about the Enforcement Officer proposal.

Three years ago there was an entirely different kind of proposal for a new position which was intended to concentrate authority for all city planning and zoning in the hands of a specially qualified and professionally trained, broadly experienced city planner. The position was tentatively called that of a Director of Development Control and it was intended that the individual chosen would supervise all city planning and building inspection functions and personnel.

Although the funding for the position had been provided by unanimous city council vote in the preceding summer's budget sessions, a series of controversies within the city council and outside of it, brought the decision to set up the new position and to hire someone to fill it, to a sudden and quite surprising halt.

Going back now to the idea of setting up and hiring someone to become the sort of Enforcement Officer we started talking about at the beginning of this article, let me fill in here my views about that, and then conclude with a reason for the Director-of-Development-Control position which I had long hoped to see filled instead.

Before and between and after my 16 years as a member of the Carmel City Council, I have greatly deplored the enormous amount of time taken in dealing with what has seemed to me, and to many others, relatively unimportant matters so far as the long-run survival of the extraordinary and unequaled Carmel which has captured the interest and admiration of people the world over, is concerned.

Because of this dealing in detail and at great length with comparative trifles, the city planning commission and the city council have all too many times been so tired and so wearied, that much more important planning-and-zoning matters have too often been given undeserved short shrift or else shoved so far back to such remote back-burners that time was never found to consider them either adequately or even at all.

I CAN THINK of important proposals made again and again, and presented in great detail and with the most persuasive arguments, which have not yet even come close to enactment. Some of these proposals were presented to the city council for the first time as long as 20 years ago. Readers may recall that Perry Newberry, a Carmel mayor in the 1920s, urged the building of a fence around Carmel — to try to limit too easy access to the city.

In 1959 or 1960 Col. Wesley Yale, a distinguished World War II army officer and later Stanford Research Institute analyst, who then lived in Carmel, proposed a probably legal and lucrative variant on the old Perry Newberry theme. He worked out a detailed plan to close all entrances to Carmel except three — Carpenter Street, Ocean Avenue, and Rio Road — and then set up gate houses beside each of those entrances staffed by policemen or parking-fee collectors who would charge a dollar-per-car fee and issue a Carmel decal which would permit parking for the car inside of Carmel at the curb or beside any street where such parking would be allowed. The decal would be good either for a single visit or for all or any part of a current year.

In Col. Yale's detailed projection, just managing to sell as little as one decal for each four cars which should properly pay for it, would have produced more than enough revenue both to pay for the 15 policemen or tax collectors who would be needed to man the gates, and to provide an overall annual sum large enough to equal the entire property tax then currently collected not only inside the city of Carmel but also in all the territory between Carmel's city limits and the three Highway 1 entrances to Carmel.

I talked with a fellow Stanford classmate who had become a deputy state attorney general, who said the Yale plan would probably stand up under court scrutiny, though he did not want me to quote him. The Carmel city council thanked Col. Yale for his report, the City Clerk filed it and then promptly lost it, and the city council took no definitive action.

IT WAS ADMIRAL C.W. Fisher, the first president of the Carmel Citizens Committee, who made a detailed study of the siting of business buildings inside of Carmel, and then came to the conclusion that the city council should set an 8,000-square-foot limit on the site for any separate business building, to help Carmel to remain what he repeatedly described as "small, intimate, and charming." This proposal was first made some 20 years ago also, and I have, again and again, tried to get the city council to enact its provisions into law — so far in vain.

The late Col. C. Austin DeCamp, a state-registered civil engineer as well as an army engineering officer, made an enormous bristol-board chart showing exactly the square footage and the cubic content of all the business buildings then in Carmel — also some 20 years ago — and then proposed a much more limited size-maxiumum for such buildings than has yet been seriously considered by any city council. Col. DeCamp was thanked, the City Clerk was to store the huge chart and to file the accompanying report, but not very long afterward, neither the chart nor the report could be located, after the then City Clerk left Carmel. Again the city council seemed to be largely indifferent to the loss of the chart and report, and again took no definitive action then or later.

Briefly then, I think the setting up the so-called Enforcement Officer position to check signs, look into homes, and check rentals, is simply adding still more help to a function which — in years past, and in the present — probably already takes up more city time than the work identified really justifies.

On the other hand the Director-of-Development-Control position could have been one which could have provided Carmel with a means to initiate and explore new avenues to save Carmel both for people now and for posterity.

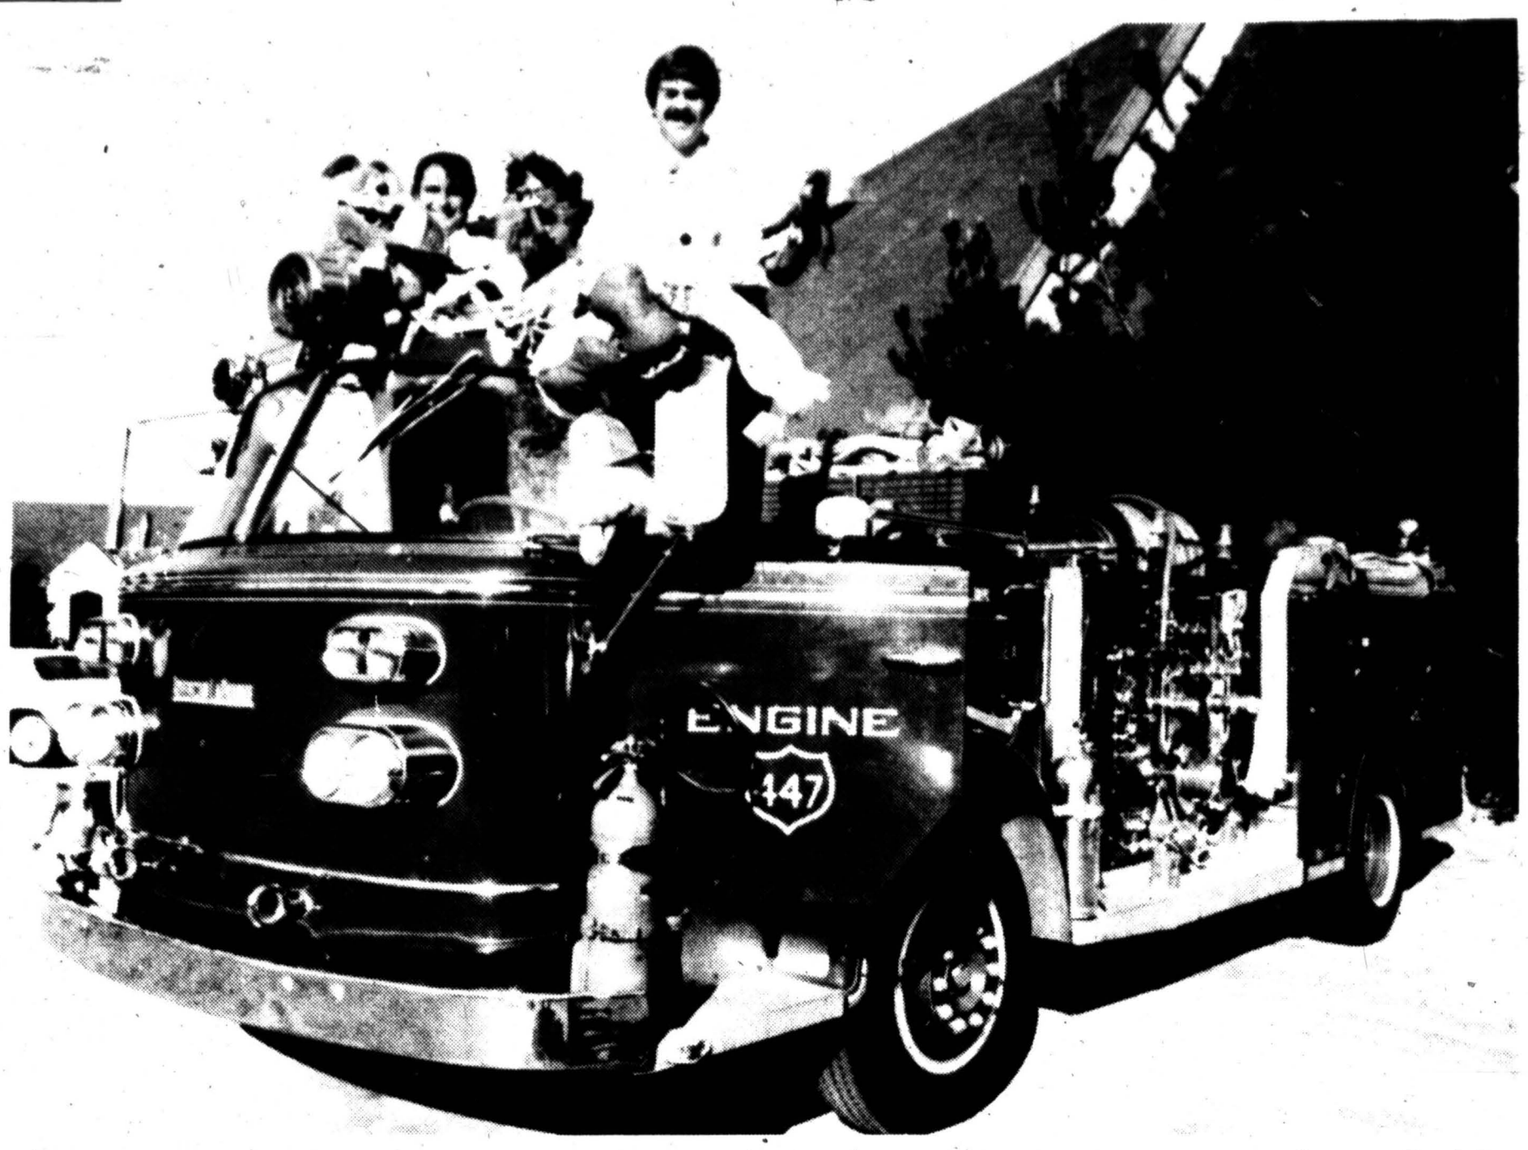
Santa needs helping hand

By TERRI LEE ROBBE



FIRE ENGINEERS with the Carmel Fire Department, Chuck August (left) and Mitch Kastros showed some of the toys to be given to needy families at Christmas. (Photo by Terri Lee Robbe).

SANTA NEEDS a helping hand!

The Carmel Fire Department is conducting a drive to raise food and toys for needy families on the peninsula this Christmas. The drive began the day after Thanksgiving and will continue until Christmas Eve.

"We will be accepting donations in the form of canned and non-perishable foods, workable toys, money and any other appropriate gifts," said Chief Robert A. Updike. "Any and all contributions will be deeply appreciated."

Once collected, the donated items will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Donations may be dropped off at the Carmel Fire Department on Sixth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission Streets, daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"We hope your organization will help us either as an individual or as a group effort," Chief Updike said.

For further information, contact Kathy Nunemaker or Mitch Kastros at the Carmel Fire Department, 624-1718.

SYMPHONY BALL AT COUNTRY CLUB ON DEC. 18

One of the most elegant holiday parties of the season is the Christmas Ball in the Dickensian manner given by the Monterey Peninsula Symphony Guild for its members.

The black tie affair includes the many guests who arrive in fashionable costumes from the Dickens era.

Naturally the affair, known as "Ye Old English Repast," will feature a sumptuous dinner of roast beef and Yorkshire pudding with all the trimmings.

Each year the hostesses decorate their own tables and they are always beautiful — silver, crystal, candles, fabulous floral arrangements and much, much more.

Co-chairwomen for the gala are Mrs. Glenn (Mary Carolyn) Hudgens and Mrs. Richard (Jane) Murtland.

Mrs. B.J. Lattner (Jane) is taking reservations.

MIIS CHRISTMAS PARTY ON DEC. 9

No one loves a good party more than Mrs. Henry (Lucielle) Huntington II, so it's not surprising that the Friends of the Monterey Institute of International Studies will have their annual holiday event at Lucille's Pebble Beach home.

President is Dee Robertson. Co-chairpersons are Mrs. Herb Towle and Mrs. Peggy Compton.

The Friends are a fundraising group for MIIS so all proceeds from the party will go to raise funds for scholarships.

This should be s fun affair so I'll have more information and photographs for you after the fact.

LAURA SMITHSON TO MAKE PILGRIMAGE

Laura Smithson of Carmel Baha'i community will make a pilgrimage to the World Center of the Baha'i Faith in Israel. The Baha'i Faith is one of four major world religions with shrines in the Holy Land.

The pilgrimage lasts nine days and consists of visits to Baha'i holy places in the cities of 'Akka and Haifa. One of these is the Shrine of the Bab, which sits majestically on the slopes of Mount Carmel. It contains the remains of the Baha'i Faith's prophet-forerunner the Bab, whose name means "The Gate."

During her pilgrimage, Laura will also visit the Baha'i International Archives building and the imposing Seat of the Universal House of Justice, which houses the Baha'i Faith's international administrative body and supreme institution. The magnificent gardens surrounding all of the shrines and buildings at the Baha'i World Center are internationally famous and are visited each year by thousands of tourists from all corners of the world.

ANNUAL DICKENSIAN DINNER DEC. 5

One of the most popular events of the holiday season is the annual Dickensian Dinner held in the parish hall of All Saints' Episcopal Church. The event will be held on Sunday, Dec. 5.

Started in 1970 by Diana Stokoe, wife of a Naval officer here at that time, the dinner coincided with the centennial year of Charles Dickens' death.

Co-sponsored by the All Saints' Episcopal Churchwomen and the Men's Club, the preparations this year are directed by Mr. and Mrs. James Neill and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McEldowney.

Wassail and hot cider will be served before the meal in the brightly decorated hall. There will be a dinner of roast beef and all the trimmings with seasonal desserts and coffee offered after dinner in the library and Lydian Room.

There will be three seatings for this warm and joyous celebration and Victorian costumes are encouraged. Ticket information is available from Nelms Finch at 624-1269.

CARMEL VALLEY CHRISTMAS TREE LIGHTING CEREMONY

Christmas lights will come to life in a blaze of color when the Mid-Carmel Valley Fire Department holds its sixth annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony and open house. The lighting ceremony is to be held at the fire station on Carmel Valley Road at 7 p.m. Dec. 3. There is no charge and the public is invited to attend.

The huge Christmas tree is located high on the south side of Carmel Valley and is visible for miles in each direction. It is maintained by Mid-Valley Fire Department volunteers and financed through community donations.

The tree is lighted by radio command from the station. Giving the command to light the tree this year will be Ron Zeise, who retired as chief of the department a year ago. He is now a resident of Sacramento.

Refreshments and Christmas songs in the fire house will follow the brief ceremony.

"The tree lighting ceremony is a Christmas kickoff tradition for many Mid-Valley residents," said Daryl Day, 1982 president of the volunteer firefighters organization. "It is one of the few opportunities for Mid-Valley families to get together on a community basis. All residents, young and old, newcomer or native, are invited to attend."

SHARE CHRISTMAS DINNER WITH SOLDIERS AT FORT ORD

Dave Kjosa, Chaplain at Fort Ord, would like to make Christmas dinner something special for the soldiers at Fort Ord who have no family or loved ones with whom to share the special holiday meal.

He has asked this reporter to put out the word to celebrities Kim Novak, Doris Day, Clint Eastwood, Merv Griffin, Paul Anka, Maggie Eastwood, Allen Funt and any others who may be out there, that he would like you to be special guests at Fort Ord to mix and mingle and share Christmas dinner (11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.) with the soldiers without family who will share several of the dining facilities.

Chaplain Kjosa can be reached by calling 242-4313 or 242-3145 or at his home in Salinas, 424-5969.

CHERRY FOUNDATION TO HOLD "TREASURE SALE"

Still working on your Christmas shopping list? If so, then mark your calendar for the Cherry Foundation's benefit "Treasure Sale" to be held in Cherry Hall (Guadalupe at Fourth) on Saturday, Dec. 4 from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Items for sale will include paintings, prints and photographs, records, ceramics, interesting bric-a-brac and a wide range of collectibles, artistic and useful.

The sale committee is still gratefully accepting donations for the sale, and these are tax-deductable.

For further information or pick-up call the Cherry Foundation at 624-7491 or 372-6185.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Betty Welge of Pebble Beach has been elected president of the Community Hospital Auxiliary. She will take office in January.

Serving with Mrs. Welge will be Alan Lisser of Carmel, president elect; Elizabeth Stevens of Carmel, secretary; Betty Durant of Pebble Beach, treasurer; and Barbara Haber of Pebble Beach, who was re-elected as active membership director.

Phil Vultaggio, of Monterey, a student at Monterey Peninsula College, was elected president of the Student Volunteers.

FESTIVAL OF TREES BEGINS FOUR DAY CELEBRATION

The Festival of the Trees, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art and held at the Monterey County Fairgrounds, opened today and will continue through Sunday.

The festival, which features 29 beautifully decorated Christmas trees with a theme of "Holiday Harmony," is expected to draw hundreds of people.

In addition to the trees at the festival, there is a Christmas Boutique offering gifts and holiday decorations, handcrafted in festival year-round workshops. There is also a Country Store stocked with all kinds of delicious, homemade holiday food specialties, concocted in the festival kitchen workshops.

Another favorite of the festival is the international selection of Christmas gifts offered by the museum gift shop annex.

Complimentary refreshments will be served continuously and generously during the festival, with special treats for the children and a wassail bowl on Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Admission is $2 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12 accompanied by an adult. The festival will be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except Sunday when it will close at 5 p.m.

"ARTISANS GIVE THANKS TO THE ANIMALS" CHRISTMAS SHOW AND SALE

With so many excellent bazaars, there's really no excuse for any of us to complain that we can't find interesting or unique gift items.

More than 30 artists and craftsmen will offer their wares at the fifth annual "Artisans Give Thanks to the Animals" Christmas show and sale. The event will open Friday, Dec. 3 at La Playa Hotel.

Buyers and browsers will be delighted with the large variety of items for sale such as jewelry, ceramics, carvings, weavings, sculpture, toys, leather work, pottery, batiks, quilting and enamel.

This year, new artists in the show will display handmade hats and clothing items, woodcut prints, etched glass and hand-painted eggs.

The Friday evening event will be a wine preview from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. A $3 donation is requested.

There is no admission charge Saturday and Sunday. The hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Proceeds from the show will benefit three local organizations: Friends of the Sea Otter, Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Cetacean Society and Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society.

CARMEL COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

One of the most popular events of the holiday season is the Carmel Community Christmas Celebration held at Sunset Center. This year the event will be held Saturday, Dec. 4 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The singing will be led by Ann Welchner, who will be backed by a choir made up of combined church choirs. Along with the traditional Christmas carols, there will be original Christmas songs and songs of many lands.

The lobby leading to the auditorium will be decorated with a huge Christmas tree decorated by local Boy Scout troops and Girl Scout troops. Food baskets will be placed around the lobby and under the tree for those who wish to donate canned goods and toys. The items will be distributed to needy families through the Salvation Army.

The Christmas tree was donated by the Carmel Kiwanis Club. The various candies which will be provided have been donated by the Host Lions of Carmel. The Carmel Rotary Club pays for all the music.

Each year, many local men and women volunteer their time to bake sweets and to serve refreshments at the reception which follows the sing-along. The reception will be held on the outside patio. Hot cider, punch, coffee and a variety of holiday cookies will be served. Many of the cookies are donated by local bakeries.

Don't forget to bring the children to this one. Along with all the fun singing Santa Claus (Dick Lewitzke) will be there to hear all about what the kids want for Christmas and to pass out candy canes.

ANN WELCHNER will lead the singing at the Carmel Community Christmas Celebration to be held at Sunset Center Saturday, Dec. 4 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. After the sing-along refreshments will be served on the patio. The public is invited to attend.

WINE AUCTION TO BENEFIT HOSPICE

A meeting to announce the First Annual Hospice Auction of Central Coast Wine was held Nov. 17 at the Lodge in Pebble Beach.

The auction will be held at the Lodge March 4 and 5, 1983. Proceeds from the event will go to benefit the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

This auction observes the tradition of the wine auction of the Hospice de Beaune of France. The French Hospice de Beaune was founded in 1443 by Nicolas Rolin, Chancellor to the Duke of Burgundy, and his wife, Guigone de Salins. Wine has always been associated with Hospice de Beaune, with the first wine auction given in 1851.

This auction of March 4-5 recognizes the unique wines of the California Central Coast, a region of eight counties delineated by the Santa Ynez Valley to the south and the Livermore Valley to the north. In this particular region are 104 wineries.

Wines in the auction will include present, new and future releases by wineries, as well as donations of special wines from private libraries and cellar wines of older vintage. There will also be wines from wineries of limited production, as well as wine and food presentations involving the cuisine of regional restaurants.

Patrick Grubb, director of Sotheby's Wine Department, will preside as the chief auctioneer. Auction events begin with a preview of wine and wine lists, wine tasting and a banquet prepared by Marc Lenoir, executive chef of the Lodge. The next day, the auction begins at 10 a.m.

Organizing this event is an auction committee which includes Alfred Gawthrop and Mrs. Susanne Obaid of the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, Robert Campbell of Almaden Vineyards, William Durney of Durney Vineyards, Gerald McFarland of McFarland and Company, E.A. Mirassou of Mirassou Winery, and Marshall Ream of Zaca Mesa Winery.

The Golden Years

Diet, exercise, and simple precautions can minimize the effects of osteoporosis, says the American Society for Bone and Mineral Research. The progressive, age-related disease — a thinning of the bones — causes an estimated million broken bones among the elderly each year.

****

The society recommends daily exercise, especially running or walking; a calcium-rich diet; avoiding excess doses of Vitamins A and D; no smoking; and, to avoid related injuries, simple safety precautions.

Isn't it nice that so many clothing manufacturers are now gearing design lines to the older woman? It wasn't so long ago that print house dresses were the principal choice available, but today's mature woman has as flattering and wide a selection of fashions as her daughter and granddaughter do.

Remember When? June 1936 — Margaret Mitchell publishes one of the all-time best sellers, "Gone With The Wind." It sells a million copies in six months and, in 1939, is made into a classic film with the then-fantastic budget of almost $4 million.

MR. AND MRS. SKIP HEEBNER gave a party at their Carmel home recently. Mrs. Heebner, center, is pictured with Fletcher A. Robbe (left) the guest of honor, and James Peter Cost.

JACKIE HOMES (left) and Susan Hren were among the 100 or so guests who attended the Heebner gala.

Heebners honor Mike Robbe

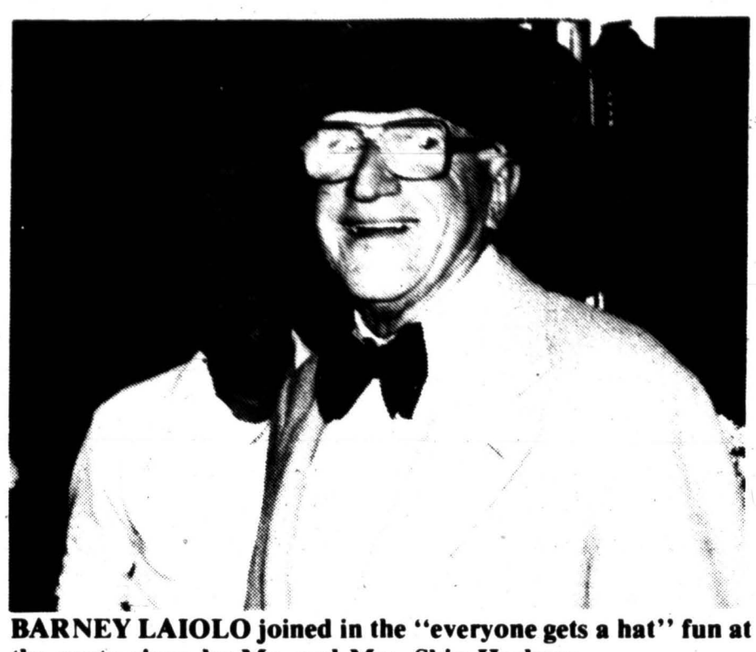
The holiday season was escalated to high gear at the gala given by Skip and Harriet Heebner recently at their Carmel home. Throughout the evening, about 100 people dropped by to share the bubbly and to munch on the gourmet feast (prepared mostly by Harriet), which covered three buffet tables.

Guest of honor at the affair was Fletcher (Mike) Robbe, an attorney from the Los Angeles area who plans to open law offices in Carmel after the first of the year. Skip and Harriet felt that the get-together would give Mike the opportunity to meet some of the local folk.

Carmel artist Jack Wall was in high spirits over his recent art show, which was held at the Hyatt Regency Embarcadero in San Francisco over the Thanksgiving weekend. Jack, who paints only birds, will also have a show at La Playa Hotel the first weekend in December.

Another interesting guest was Susan Jean Hren, an Oriental rug specialist, who will soon open her own shop in Carmel. Susan said that her "total care" of the rugs includes hand-washing them with a natural oil-based soap.

Other guests included Isa Watson (who prepared a scrumptious Scottish trifle), Barney and Elinor Laiolo, John Setchel, James Peter and Betty Cost, William (Squire) Brown, Linda May, Barclay and Harriet Ferguson, Phyllis Baker, Don and Francie Drummond, Dorothy Thompson and daughter Kay, Jeanne Tuster, Brooke Robbe, Jackie Holmes, Betty Armstrong and daughter Carol, Kay Maccagno, Grant Morrill, Fred and Lise Schultz, Audrey McCarthy and many others.



BARNEY LAIOLO joined in the "everyone gets a hat" fun at the party given by Mr. and Mrs. Skip Heebner.

MONTESSORI SCHOOL TO HOLD HOLIDAY BAZAAR

A holiday potpourri is being held at the Montessori School of Carmel from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5. The school is located at 9290 Carmel Valley Rd., next to the Begonia Gardens. Everyone is invited to attend.

There will be something for everyone — holiday crafts and decorations, stocking stuffers and gifts for all ages including many especially made and priced for the very young shopper in search of the perfect gift for mom, dad, or a best friend.

For hungry browsers, fresh croissants, hot cinnamon rolls and coffee will be available in the morning. Hot homemade pizza will be available for lunch.

A variety of homemade baked goods will be for sale.

ALUMNAE CLUB TO HAVE CHRISTMAS LUNCHEON

The Monterey Peninsula Alumnae Club of Kappa Alpha Theta will meet at the Pacific Grove home of Mrs. Lawrence C. Black for a Christmas Luncheon meeting at 12 noon Wednesday, Dec. 8.

Assisting hostesses are Mrs. Thor Krogh, Mrs. John Jamison and Miss Alice Black. Reservations must be made by Monday, Dec. 6. For details call 624-7346 or 624-7167.

SURPRISE HOUSEWARMING FOR BERT AND BELLA

How would you feel if you arrived home after having breakfast with friends and discovered more than 150 people milling around your front yard? Well, if you were Bella Cutino, you would feel terrific because that's exactly what happened last week when the Cutinos were given a surprise housewarming party at their beautiful Jacks Peak home.

It was sort of "gonna pay you back" type affair because a year or so ago the Cutinos pulled the same type of surprise party on their friends (and business partners) Ted and Velma Balestreri.

Business partners of the Cutinos and Balestreris who were in on the surprise were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davidian and Mr. and Mrs. George Zarounian, all from the San Joaquin Valley area.

To get the Cutinos away from their home, Ted and Velma invited them to breakfast at the Beach and Tennis Club. In the meantime the staff from the Sardine Factory had prepared a feast of such things as oysters, clams, filet mignon, three different types of spaghetti and dozens of other delicacies, and carted everything to the Cutino home.

Bella says it was one of those absolutely perfect days — warm sunny skies so clear that the view from the Cutino home was fabulous. Many of the guests gathered on the back patio area to socialize while others turned the kitchen floor into a ballroom and danced to the music of Mike Marotta and his band.

The Cutinos finished building their home just about a year ago and just recently finished the decorating. Naturally they received many beautiful gifts.

Bella, Burt and the children, Marc, Michele and Bart, all recovered in time to enjoy Thanksgiving dinner at the Monterey home of Bert's sister, Rosemarie Topper.

Bella's big night will come on Christmas Eve when she and Bert have their families over for the big annual seafood dinner.

DELTA GAMMA ALUMNAE TO HOLD CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Delta Gamma Alumnae Association of the Monterey Peninsula extends a cordial invitation to all Delta Gammas to attend a Christmas Party on Sunday, Dec. 5 from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The cocktail-buffet will be held at the home of Florence Larsen on La Rancheria Rd., Carmel Valley.

FORECAST: Things are looking good!

Principal's report

By MARSHA KADING-KELLY
Carmel High Principal

Last month we featured our freshman class. Our sophomore class of 1985 is helping to set the tone of our school. Members of the class are active in all of the school programs and contribute greatly in the area of extracurricular activities. The class is well represented on every athletic team and we have observed a great deal of talent among these students. The sophomore class officers are: president, Michelle Lazard; vice president, Jason Reate; secretary, Kira Binford; treasurer, Dawn Rea.

The Central Coast Section of C.I.F. recently celebrated National High School Activities Week. National surveys reveal that student who participate in high school activities are more likely to have higher academic averages and better attendance records that those students who do not participate. The administration and staff believe that participation in activity programs teaches values, builds strong minds and bodies, and emphasizes that race, color, sex, and economic status are not obstacles for participation.

We have many clubs on campus, as well as athletic teams. Two clubs which emphasize environmental awareness are the Ski Club and the Wilderness Club. Both groups are quite active currently.

Bob Harr and I took four students to compete in a High School Academic Bowl reminiscent of the old College Bowl. Our students were very successful, and the excitement generated by the academic challenge equaled any athletic contest that I have attended. We are hoping to replicate this program on our own campus in the spring.

The entire Carmel High School community wishes all of you a healthy and safe Thanksgiving season. We do indeed have much for which to be thankful.

Polo season ends

The Carmel padres water polo season ended last week with league tournament. Carmel finished fourth out of 11 teams. The season was generally successful. Even though the team played the top three teams at the beginning of the season, the Padres ended up 7-3 in the league.

The highlight of the season was without a doubt the final game against the number one C.C.S. team, Live Oak. At the end of the half, Carmel was remarkably close but Carmel ended up five points behind, giving Live Oak the winning score.

To conclude the season, an awards banquet was held. Paul Gaske was high scorer with 51 goals. Sean Mullen was named "Team Captain." Mark Reardon was awarded "M.V.P. Offense" and Dan Kruger "M.V.P. Defense." David Sandstrom was "Most Improved." (By Mark Reardon).

JERRY HU, senior student at Carmel High School, has been chosen to be student of the month by the foreign language department. Jerry is a strong student with wide interests including French, biology, literature, and tennis. He is an artist (oil and acrylic are his best mediums), and loves to backpack. After graduation, Jerry hopes to attend either Stanford or the University of California at Berkeley.

Padre sports start with a bang

Varsity football

The Carmel High Varsity football team had a tremendous season under first year, head coach, aerial coordinator, Steve Hare. Hare directed the Padres to win and to have class doing it. The proclaimed "Air Hare" offense was piloted by Steve Zeller.

The junior quarterback led the MTAL in passing yardage and passing percentage. Zeller had help from the sensational receiving corps of Carmel. It was led by senior Brad ("Sticky Fingers") Dufur. Dufur had a stellar season for the Padres.

Brad had the knack of leaving helpless defenders in the dust! The other prime receivers were Mike Kelly and Chris Meckel. Mike and Brad had a very fine season of coming out of the backfield to catch passes. Chris Meckel played tight-end in the elaborate offense. Meckel was very versatile at blocking and then going out to snare the Zeller bullets.

The other aspect of the offense which is sometimes lost in the limelight of the scorers, is the offensive line. The entire line protected Zeller immaculately this season.

While exclaiming about the offense, everyone overlooked the defense. The defense played extremely well also, spearheaded by senior Gene Earsley in the middle. The defense recorded two consecutive shut-outs during the season.

This year — no matter how one looks at it — was a highly successful year. The Padres next year will be a team to watch out for in the MTAL. The fans of Carmel this year were very supportive. Thank you Padres and the team supporters for a very memorable year. (By Jaran Bernstein and Ernie Wellenmann).

Girls' basketball

The Carmel High School girls' varsity basketball team is looking forward to a great season, according to the new coach, Rich Frank. He is, of course, working for a winning season, but his major concern is to motivate each girl to become the best player she can be. Mr. Frank formerly coached at both San Jose and Seaside High for a number of years.

Along with the coach, the girls are also very enthusiastic about the season. Cindy Conford and Tara Speiser, the only seniors on the team, feel that the girls have a lot of spirit and that the season will be good.

Stacie Stainbrook, a former diver, said the practices are harder than diving practices and she hopes the basketball season will be as successful as the diving season. Heather Shoemaker and Jeanette Crosby said practice is very difficult but they both know that they are doing something good for themselves. Shawn Sparr said that even though practices are hard, they don't interfere with her schoolwork.

She feels it makes her work harder to insure her grades are good enough to stay on the team. For Kelli Bohrisch — a new student at Carmel High — the basketball team has helped her to meet many people. All the girls have found different meanings in the team, but they all feel very positive about the team and the season. They are anxiously awaiting their first game, which will be played at San Lorenzo. (By Linda Kagan).

Girls' swimming

The Carmel High School girls' swim team did it again this year, remaining undefeated for the 11th season. Carmel went through their dual meet season relatively easily until their last meet against Aptos High School.

The girls suffered their first loss in 95 straight meets. Their record was intact as Aptos violated a rule with their meet entries. This caused Aptos' three-point lead to change in Carmel's favor. At the League Championships, Carmel was untouchable as their spirit and talent came shining through. The girls won by 44.5 points for the 12th straight year. Again Carmel had finished on top!

Obituaries

Ernest R. Siefkin

Private cremation has been held under auspices of the Funeral and Memorial Society of Monterey Bay, with ashes scattered at sea for Ernest R. Siefkin, 77, who died Nov. 11 at Community Hospital following a heart attack.

Siefkin was a resident of Carmel Valley since 1979. He was born Oct. 27, 1905, in Cherokee, Iowa and was an engineer for Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in Burbank for 30 years.

He was a member of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula. Siefkin is survived by his wife, Violet; sons, Randolph of Modesto, William of Wilmington, Del., and David of Berkeley; sisters, Mrs. Francis Bacon of Santa Barbara and Mrs. George Spradling of Wichita, Kan., and five grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Heart Association.

Roy P. Forzani

A rosary was recited Tuesday, Nov. 23 for Roy P. Forzani, 82, a resident of Carmel Valley for more than 60 years. Forzani died Sunday at the Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital in Monterey after a lengthy illness.

Born July 19, 1900 in San Francisco, Forzani worked for the old Hotel Del Monte before it became part of the Naval Postgraduate School, and was later employed at the residence of S.F.B. Morse, as a chauffeur.

He is survived by sons, Doug and Roy Jr., both of Carmel Valley, and Joseph of Monterey; daughters, Dolores Lewis of Fullerton, Marie Seliskar of Carmel Valley, Florence Christman of Fremont, Irene Garcia of Napa, and Joanne Ward of Monterey; and a sister, Florence Guinasso of Burlingame, and 22 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

A Mass of Christian burial was celebrated Wednesday, Nov. 24 at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, Carmel Valley. Entombment was in San Carlos Cemetery. Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Edith Cooper

Recitation of the rosary was held Tuesday, Nov. 23 for Edith Elizabeth Cooper, 73, a resident of Carmel Valley and Fresno for the past 60 years. Mrs. Cooper died Friday, Nov. 17 at Hazel Hawkins Hospital in Hollister.

A native of Pennsylvania, she was born March 18, 1909, and was a member of Lambda Sigma Psi, the Emblem Club and La Caballista riding club. Mrs. Cooper is survived by her husband, Abelardo; her daughter, Mary E. Tully of Santa Cruz; her sister, Barbara Chakurian of Auberry; one grandchild, two nephews and two nieces.

Funeral services took place Wednesday, Nov. 24 at the Lisle Calaveras Chapel in Fresno, followed by entombment in Fresno Memorial Gardens.

Fred W. Swanson

Memorial services were held Friday, Nov. 26 for Fred W. Swanson, 78, a resident of Carmel for 22 years. Swanson died Saturday, Nov. 20 after an apparent heart attack while swimming at the Del Monte Spa.

A native of Stillwater, Minn., Swanson was born April 7, 1904. A retired executive, he was a member of the Carmel Kiwanis Club and the Advertising Club.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel, of Carmel.

Memorial services were held at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove, with arrangements under the directions of the Paul Mortuary.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Fredrick Utley

In accordance with his wishes, no services are planned for Fredrick Hugh Utley who died Thursday, Nov. 25 at Community Hospital after a period of failing health. He was 85.

A resident of Pebble Beach for the past 22 years, Mr. Utley was born in Grand Rapids, Mich. on Nov. 12, 1897. He was a self-employed insurance agent in Grand Rapids for 35 years in the general insurance business.

Mr. Utley was a former member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

He is survived by his wife, Nathalie Utley of Pebble Beach and a sister, Margaret L. Utley of Santa Barbara.

David DeMarche

Memorial services were held Monday, Nov. 29 at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in Carmel Valley for David F. DeMarche, 72, of Carmel Valley. Mr. DeMarche died Tuesday, Nov. 23 at Community Hospital after a period of failing health.

A native of Austria, he was born Oct. 15, 1910.

Mr. DeMarche was a social scientist for 40 years. He worked for 15 years as director of social services for San Francisco County and was an associate of the San Francisco Bay Area Social Services Organization, in addition to serving with the Services for Seniors in San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Edythe; sons, James R. of Santa Ana and Dickson F. of Westport, Conn.; his mother, Henrietta DeMarche of Carmel; and nine grandchildren.

The family suggests contributions to the donor's favorite charity.

Morrnah Simeona, A Kahuna Lapa'au or healer, and herbalist will give a free lecture at the Boy Scout hall in Carmel (at Mission and Eighth at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 2

This introductory lecture will explain some of the concepts to be taught at her workshop which will be held on Sunday, Dec. 5 at the Pacific Grove Art Center from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Cost of the workshop is $50. Those who attend should bring a bag lunch.

Mrs. Simeona was invited to the Peninsula area by the Community Spirit Speakers Bureau of the Monterey Peninsula Wellness Center. She will be sharing her knowledge of Ho'oponopono, the Hawaiian system of problem solving that she says was used daily by the ancient Hawaiians to clear the path and open the way to whatever situation one was attending to.

"Today, Ho'oponopono can be used by any person to balance out any problems in their own lives, and in doing so, balance out any conflicts within the family, and in turn, the community, and so the world," Mrs. Simeona said.

Those wishing further information can call the Community Spirit Office at 625-5508.

Father Farrell's wisdom

On speechmaking

CARMEL ROTARY CLUB, LA PLAYA HOTEL

One of the modern Chinese writers, Lu Xum, was a sort of Chinese version of our H.L. Mencken. He fought until his death in 1936 for intellectual freedom and artistic integrity. It is very strange that the Red Chinese should call on his words when they began a new purge among intellectuals and artists.

Lu Xum wrote: "Although bedbugs are unpleasant when they suck your blood they do it without a word, which is quite frank and straightforward. Mosquitos are quite different. Before biting they insist on making a long speech expounding the reasons which justify them for feeding on human blood."

Like Lu Xum, we prefer the more straightforward bedbugs to the communist mosquitos and our tax-imposing legislators. Lu Xum contended that the war lords and the privates proceeded with their bloodsucking without feeling the necessity to justify it by long rationalizing orations.

Thomas Jefferson said that speeches measured by the hour die by the hour. But speech-making tax collectors and bloodsuckers never die do they? And they never shut up. Amen.

CARMEL VALLEY COMMUNITY CHAPEL

On Sunday, Dec. 5, the Carmel Valley Community Chapel will have two services. The 11 a.m. service will be conducted by the Rev. Lois Powell, who is one of several persons under consideration by the pulpit committee as a potential replacement for the Rev. Don Johnson upon his retirement in April.

The second service will be a Vesper Service at 4 p.m. titled The Celebration of Christmas Through Carols and Music. For this service Steven Tosh, music director for the church, has developed an all-musical service similar to the one held at the church on Good Friday.

Music by Gustav Holst, Handel and Pachelbel will be presented in addition to Christmas carols.

MONEY MARKET RATES, NOW. NO WAITING. AT SECURITY PACIFIC.

Security Pacific Interim Investment Plan. Right now, a lot of investors are waiting for the December 14th start date of the new insured money market accounts.

But you don't have to wait.

Instead, you can be earning money market rates at Security Pacific today. At the same time, you can arrange in advance for your Security Pacific Insured Money Market Account. And you'll get an impressive extra interest bonus in the bargain.

Here's how it works.

We're offering an interim investment plan for a minimum of $2500 which, like our Insured Money Market Account, pays money market rates.

Invest now, and we will, at your direction, automatically transfer your funds into a Security Pacific Insured Money Market Account on December 14th.

Funds invested in the interim investment plan are held in a Repurchase Agreement which is not an account and not insured by the FDIC.

But they are backed by Federal government and government agency securities. And by Security Pacific, the nation's tenth largest bank with more than $33 billion in assets and a 100 year record of strength and stability.

TODAY'S RATE: 9%
This rate compounds daily and fluctuates with the money market.

Act early and earn up to $100 in extra interest. We'll pay you a bonus for planning ahead on your Security Pacific Insured Money Market Account.

Simply fill out one of the coupons and bring it to one of our more than 625 banking offices.

We'll invest your money now. And arrange for your funds to be automatically transferred into a Security Pacific Insured Money Market Account. On December 14th, we will add the value of the coupon to your opening balance.

$10 SECURITY PACIFIC INTEREST BONUS COUPON Upon surrender of this coupon completely filled in, when investing in a Retail Repurchase Agreement before December 14, 1982 for $2,500–$4,999.99 and permitting the Bank to automatically transfer the funds into the Bank's Insured Money Market Account on December 14, 1982, the Bank will credit the Insured Money Market Account with $10 additional interest which will appear on your first monthly statement. TOMMY DOWD, (left) of Carmel Valley, plays Fritz, Jeanne Robinson plays the mother and Kandi Kelley stars as Clara in the popular Christmas ballet the Nutcracker, to be performed Saturday, December 11 at Sunset Center, Carmel. The ballet, sponsored by Salinas Performing Arts, features the Joann Adair, Dance-Arts Studio of Salinas and soloists from the Ballet Fantasque.

Features local dancers:

Yule classic 'Nutcracker' livens the holiday season

The Nutcracker ballet will be performed Saturday, Dec. 4 at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. at the Salinas Community Center, Sherwood Hall, and Saturday, Dec. 11 at Sunset Center, Carmel. Advance tickets are available at Sherwood Hall box office, and Ticketron outlets or at the door.

Salinas Performing Arts is once again sponsoring their annual performances of the Nutcracker ballet, featuring the Joann Adair, Dance-Arts Studio of Salinas. This year, soloists from the Ballet Fantasque Company, under the direction of Kira Ivanovsky will augment the production. One of their principal ballerinas, Milou Ivanovsky, will be seen in the leading role of the Sugar Plum Fairy. Solosits from the Ballet Fantasque will highlight the second act, "Kingdom of Sweets," dancing such well known variations as "Spanish Chocolate, Chinese Tea, Arabian Coffee" and the Russian Trepak and other dances.

Local dancers from the Joann Adair studio will perform in the First Act "Party Scene," the "Dream Scene" and the "Land of Snow." Advanced dancers will include Jeanne Robinson in the duel roles of the mother and the Rose Queen. Diane Browning will appear as the Dream Fairy, Linda Lane as the Christmas Doll and Gloria Simon as the Rat King. The part of Clara will be performed by 10 year old Kandi Kelly, and the role of her naughty brother Fritz, will be shared by Tommy Dowd and Heidi Fields.

Rocko Tavarni, well known local actor, will be cast as Dr. Drosselmeyer, the eccentric magician, and uncle to Clara. More than 70 youngsters ranging in age from four to 18 will appear as snow flakes, elves, slaves, soldiers, rats, dolls and candy flowers.

With the professional dancers from the Ballet Fantasque, there will be over 100 dancers and actors onstage.

The Nutcracker is a charming tradition in the true spirit of the Christmas season, well suited for families and for children of all ages. This year's production boasts newly designed sets and costumes.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets will go to the dance and theater scholarship awards presented annually by Salinas Performing Arts.

Joann Adair, director of the ballet, is an English trained dancer of the Royal Academy of Dancing, London. This is the 12th annual production of the Nutcracker, for Monterey and Santa Cruz County audiences in which she has participated or directed and produced.

Madame Kira Ivanovsky, director of Ballet Fantasque, was born in Russia and danced with the original Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. For the past several years she has devoted her talents to create the Ballet Fantasque.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children and seniors. For further information, phone 684-1265.

Out on a limb

'The leaning tree of Carmel'

By GREG D' AMBROSIO
Carmel City Forester

There have been several questions relating to tree safety following the first of our winter storms. What I thought I would do this week was to discuss the relationship of trees and people in urban settings and what can be done to anticipate possible tree problems.

Q. If I suspect my tree may be leaning more than it was and I think it may be falling over, how can I tell?

A. Examine the ground around the trunk of the tree. If there are cracks in the soil or if the ground surface is swollen, mounded, or uplifted then you know you have a real problem. Sometimes trees will lean gradually over a period of years as crown foilage increases in size and weight. In situations like these, the lean is so gradual that the root system has time to compensate by increased root development. The best way to avoid this problem is to thin your tree. A tree can withstand the removal of approximately one third of the foliage without any detrimental effects. Removal of a third of the weight throughout the entire crown will improve the ratio of weight above and below ground and will balance the tree.

The foliage of a tree acts like a giant sail. The more foliage area, the more wind is blocked and the greater the stress on the tree's trunk and root system. Thining will allow high winds to blow through the crown, thus reducing the stress to trunk, limbs and roots. A reduction of 100 lbs. of weight in a 60-100 foot tree will have the effect of reducing the pressure on trunk and roots of approximately 1000 lbs. These approaches can be used for balancing any size tree or shrub before it is too late.

Q. How can I keep my pine tree small (20-30 feet tall) and looking full and green?

A. That's a lot to expect from one tree but I think I can help. Simply break the developing candles in half on every branch. This pinching process will stop growth of new wood and will maintain the selected height and breadth.

Some words of caution: If you decide to use this method to control size, then make sure you don't allow the tree to become too dense. Every few years you'll have to thin the foliage to open up the crown. Failure to do this will cause problems of disease or insect damage. Insects and diseases thrive in thick foliage where there is little or no sunlight or air circulation.

Growing up in the midwest, my folks planted three Scots Pines in our back yard. They were planted as a screen to block out an undesirable view. Each spring my folks would pinch the new candles in half and thin the branches. By the time I wasx 21 those same trees should have been at least 40 feet tall yet they were still only 20 feet tall, bushy and open; the picture of health. The reason I remember this so vividly is that my folks maintained these trees without the aid of a professional tree service and they used only small clippers to accomplish this annual project.

Zantman Art Galleries to exhibit 'Paintings by our Carmel Artists'

Zantman Art Galleries will hold a festive opening night reception Saturday, Dec. 4 from 5-8 p.m. for their new exhibition Paintings By Our Carmel Artists.

Among the many distinguished artists represented by the Zantman Art Galleries, nine are artists who live and work in the Carmel area. This select group and their paintings are among the finest and most sought-after works displayed in their galleries.

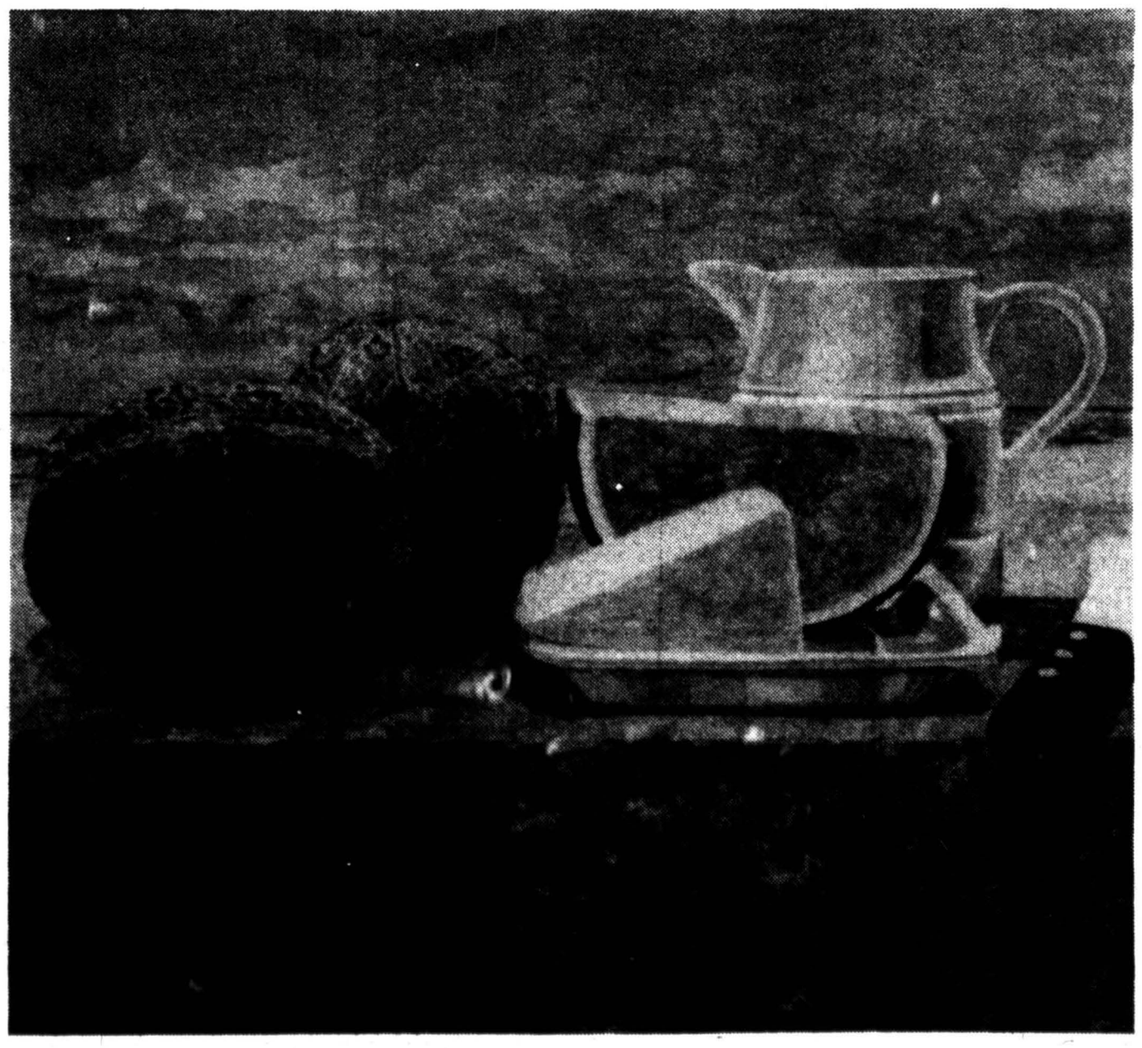
The nine artists are Frank Ashley, Gael Baldock, Fred Brooks, Leslie Emery, Barclay Ferguson, Hu Chi Chung, Loran Speck, Kipp Stewart and Bernard Wynne.

There is remarkable variety in theme, subject, style, technique, and medium displayed among these artists. However, each is consistent within his own body of work. Subject matter in this collection ranges from exacting character studies to romantic landscapes to highly decorative florals to traditional and contemporary still lifes.

From the standpoint of variety alone, this December group show promises to be the most exciting of 1982, a year in which Zantman Galleries have sponsored 15 one or two-man shows.

All artists will attend the opening. The public is invited to attend to meet local artists and celebrate the opening of their first group exhibition.

Zantman Art Gallery is at Mission and Sixth Avenue, Carmel. For further information, phone 624-8314.



CHEESE AND MELONS, a watercolor by artist Kipp Stewart is one of his works which will be included in an exhibition of Paintings By Our Carmel Artists, to be displayed Saturday, Dec. 4 from 5-8 p.m. at a festive opening night reception for the nine artists involved in the exhibition. The public is invited to attend.

Holiday sing is Dec. 4

The annual Christmas in Carmel celebration will be held at 3 p.m. Dec. 4 at the Sunset Center Theater, east side of San Carlos Street between Ninth and Tenth avenues.

The singing will be led by Ann Welchner. A choir combined from several church groups will also perform.

Admission to the event is free. Participants are asked to donate either a canned good, children's gift (please specify age and size) or a gift for a senior citizen.

For words to many of the songs that will be sung, please see page 12.

Film review:

'Fitzcarraldo': Herzog's dream film

By ANNE TELFORD

Fitzcarraldo. With Klaus Kinski and Claudia Cardinale. Written and directed by Werner Herzog. A New World Pictures release by Roger Corman.

After all the brouhaha surrounding Fitzcarraldo — filmed and on-hold for a period of five years in the Peruvian jungles — the film itself unfortunately pales in comparison.

An overriding feeling of disbelief pervades Fitzcarraldo. It is an event as well as a film, whose enduring legacy will most likely be its documentation of the Campas Indians of the Rio Tambo and the Machiguengas Indians of the Rio Camisea, Peru. Much of the footage of the jungle and the proud, aloof faces of the Indians is beautiful, the stuff legends are made of. But much of it is also static, and like the enduring beauty of the jungle, and the majesty of its people, it exists, but it goes nowhere.

One gets the feeling that Fitzcarraldo is Werner Herzog's Apocalypse Now. It gives a minor action heroic importance and obsessive treatment. Klaus Kinski, Herzog's perennial lead actor, relives his role of Nosferatu, the Vampyre, as Brian Sweeney Fitzgerald. The eccentric entrepreneur's dream is to build an opera house in Iquitos, where his idol, Enrico Caruso, can perform. His faraway look, exclamation point hair (dyed a strange orange blonde) and gaunt appearance all echo his vampire role, and lend unexpected humor to a serious undertaking.

In order to fulfill his grandoise dream, Fitzcarraldo (as he is called) undertakes to become a rubber baron by exploiting an area of untamed jungle. In order to do this he buys a steamship that he plans to transport overland from one river to another by hauling it over a steep incline.

Claudia Cardinale, as Molly — Fitzcarraldo's lover and the madame of a brothel — helps him in his goals through her business contacts. The combination of the older but still gorgeous Cardinale and the confused, toothsome Kinski, seems ludicrous, but is not without its moments. They have one interesting love scene in a hammock with an ocelot that is erotic in its intensity away from the central characters.

Kinski's rubbery face with its possessed eyes, beautiful smile and aristocratic nose can exude sensuality, but more often than not, exudes only demonic intensity, distance and a goofy look.

The dream imagery of the jungle has its contrast in the world of the noveau riche in Manaus, Brazil, with its opera house and dressed up, socially crude rubber barons. Scenes of young children praying outside a jail, a young child playing a violin, and Kinski superimposed against the lush Peruvian landscape floating down the river are beautifully composed and realized.

Burden of Dreams, Les Blank's critically acclaimed feature length documentary on Herzog's filming of Fitzcarraldo, while it lacks some of director of photography Thomas Mauch's spectacular footage, conveys the passion and the intensity of Herzog's vision far more than his own film.

Orinoco Paul — captain of Fitzcarraldo's steamship the Molly Aida — warns Fitzcarraldo to "beware," and that "the jungle is full of lies, demons and delusions." In time, Fitzcarraldo learns this is good and true advice. But by that time, he has forsaken his grand dream and settled for the knowledge that he was able to achieve the "impossible" and the more modest dream of presenting an opera company in Iquitos for one performance, aboard his ship.

Fitzcarraldo's only proof of greatness was that he had seen something other men never dreamed of. The proof of greatness in Herzog's film lies in the fact that he created his own dream to show other men, regardless of the cost.

CV Library to show musical

The Friends of the Carmel Valley Library will present the musical Till the Clouds Roll By, as part of their Winter 1982 Film Program.

This vintage film will be shown Friday, Dec. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Carmel Valley Library, Buckeye Building, Carmel Valley. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children. Refreshments will be available.

For further information, phone 659-4826.

JURGEN PROCHNOW stars as the U-boat captain who leads the crew of the U-96 on a daring patrol of the North Atlantic, in Das Boot, written and directed by Wolfgang Petersen. The wartime adventure is currently playing at the Carmel Village Theater, Dolores and Seventh, Carmel.

Assault With a Deadly Weapon: A horror film, rated R for violence. At the State Three Cinemas.

Creep Show: A comedy horror film with an all star cast of Hal Holbrook, Adrienne Barbeau, Fritz Weaver, Leslie Nielsen, Carrie Nye, E. G. Marshall and Viveca Lindfors as Aunt Bedelia. Directed by Night of the Living Dead creator George A. Romero. At the State Three Cinemas.

Das Boot: Back by popular demand for a limited engagement. Starring Jurgen Prochnow, Herbert Gronemeyer and Klaus Wennemann. Based on Lothar Gunther-Buchheim's semi-autobiographical novel, Wolfgang Petersen's film follows a daring patrol by U-96, one of Admiral Doenitz's famed U-boats, from its send-off party in the occupied French port of New Rochelle to its climatic return months later. Das Boot is more than just a war film. It is a portrayal of men meeting propaganda and myth and finding the hollow truth behind the words "honor" and "strength". At the Carmel Village Theater.

Dr. Butcher: Another offering in the horror film genre of mutilation and fright which attempts to shock through sensationalism and graphic violence. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

The Empire Strikes Back: Luke Skywalker, Hans Solo, Princess Leia and the evil Darth Vader are back and better than ever in George Lukas' sequel to Star Wars. Yoda, the wise and wizened sage teaches an impatient Luke how to be a Jedi Warrior so he can take on Darth Vader. Fantastic special effects and a more philosophical bent give this adventure film substance. At the Hill Theater.

E.T.: The Extra-Terrestrial: A million-dollar creature from outer space who has a magical life of its own. Children and adults will love Steven Spielberg's fantasy film about a creature from outer space stranded on Earth. Humor and wonder combine as a 10-year-old boy assumes responsibility for E.T.'s safety while searching for a way to reunite him with his own kind. Rated PG. At the Valley Cinema.

Fitzcarraldo: Werner Herzog's epic tale of a colonial entrepreneur who wants to build an opera house at Iquitos in the Peruvian Amazon for his idol, Enrico Caruso, to sing at. Klaus Kinski, Herzog's perennial lead actor stars in this tale of vision and madness. Claudia Cardinale co-stars. Rated PG. At the Dream Theater.

The Last Unicorn: An animated film starring the talents of Alan Arkin, Jeff Bridges, Mia Farrow, Christopher Lee and Keenan Wynne. Distributed by Jensen Farley Pictures. At the Center Cinemas.

The Secret of N-I-M-H: Starring the voices of Dom DeLuise, Peter Strauss, John Carradine and Hermione Baddeley. Based on the novel Mrs. Frisby and the Rats of NIMH, by Robert C. O'Brien, this action fantasy is in the classical style of animation. The story concerns a widowed mouse who seeks the help of some mysterious rats to save her family. This is the first feature film from Don Bluth Productions since he and 16 others left Walt Disney Studios more than three years ago. At the Center Cinemas.

The Soldier: A comic-book story about terrorists who plan to blow up the Saudi Arabian oil fields in order to get the U.S. to force Israel out of the West Bank. Ken Wahl stars as a superhero who kills the supervillians — all stuntmen. Rated R for excessive violence, brutality and profanity. At the State Three Cinemas.

The Sorceress: Leigh Harris stars in a fantasy which takes place in an age undreamed of, full of demons and dragons. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Tex: Stars Matt Dillon, Jim Metzler and Ben Johnson as Cole Collins. The struggles and conflicts of two teenage brothers growing up in the southwest without parental guidance is the main focus of Tex, a coming-of-age film from Walt Disney Productions. Based on the best-selling novel by S.E. Hinton, America's leading young adult author, Tex is a realistic account of an adolescent's maturation, relationships and taking of responsibility. Directed by Tim Hunter, screenplay by Hunter and Charlie Haas. At the Dream Theater.

They Call Me Bruce: A spoof of the Bruce Lee school of martial arts film. Stars Johnny Yune and Margaux Hemingway Rated G. At the Regency Theater.

Time Bandits: A fantasy about a group of dwarves who have a map which enables them to find "holes in time." They drop in on a 20th century boy and lead him on a series of exciting adventures. At the Regency Theater.

"Dr. Strangeglove" tops film bill this week

An "Apocalyptical Night" featuring Peter Sellers in Dr. Strangelove, or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love The Bomb, and Gregory Peck in Stanley Kramer's On The Beach, as well as the classic Lolita, will be offered by the Monterey Peninsula Film Society this week as part of its fall schedule.

Dr. Strangelove, directed by Stanley Kubrick, stars Peter Sellers in one of his most memorable roles. The film is the winner of 60 international awards. "Outrageous, daring, inventive, devilish, macabre and scintillating comedy," said the Saturday Review.

On The Beach, tells the tale of a group of Australians who await their inevitable end after nuclear explosions have annihilated everyone in the Northern hemisphere. Starring Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner and Fred Astaire, this 1959 film directed by Stanely Kramer, makes a classic anti-war statement.

Dr. Strangelove will screen at 8:15 p.m., followed by an intermission with refreshments, then On The Beach will be shown Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3-4.

Stanley Kubrick's Lolita, is a brilliant adaptation of Vladimir Nabokov's controversial novel about the strange passion of middle aged Humbert Humbert for nymphet Lolita, played with sultry enthusiasm by Sue Lyons.

James Mason plays Humbert Humbert, and Peter Sellers is his rival for Lolita's affections. In a consummate performance Shelly Winters plays Lolita's mother. Lolita is a masterpiece of comic despair and a provocative triumph worthy of Nabokov's original.

Lolita will screen at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8.

All three films will be shown in the Morse Auditorium, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. General admission is $3.50, $2.75 for students, seniors and military and $2 for Film Society members and children.

For further information, phone 659-4795.

Changes in dance today

By RICHARD TYLER

TRYING TO categorize dance these days is virtually impossible. Dance has changed dramatically.

So much cross-fertilization has occurred that it has become difficult to differentiate some ballet companies from modern dance and certain types of modern dance from theater or the visual arts. In addition, today there are considerably more "accepted" concert dance forms or styles and a multitude of offshoot forms.

You may classify modern dance presentations by a variety of names — contemporary dance, experimental, or postmodern — and never be entirely right or wrong. It is in modern dance that so much of the creative explosion has occurred, but the evolution of modern dance has not left behind all of its important manifestations.

Modern dance can be traced to Isadora Duncan, who was the first to break loose from classical choreography and express her free spirit on stage. In the early part of the 20th Century, she was the first to dance without shoes and employed movements which were a dramatic departure from all accepted dance forms.

In the 1930s, it was Martha Graham who began to give modern dance a form and a vocabulary of its own. Known for her prolific choreography, Graham's movements are characterized by contracting and releasing the spine and torso movement. Many of the traditional modern dance companies are still active and making vital contributions to the art form and industry. The Martha Graham Dance Company, Merce Cunningham Dance Company, Jose Limon Dance Company, Alvin Ailey, Paul Taylor, Nikolais Dance Theater, Murray Louis Dance Company and many others are among traditional modern companies most in demand.

As the names suggest, most modern dance companies are single artistic director/choreographer companies which perform only that choreographer's work. There are exceptions to this rule, however, such as the Bill Evans Dance Company of Seattle which performs other choreographers' works in addition to that of Evans. Modern dance repertory companies such as the Repertory Dance Theater of Utah exist to perform the work of a multitude of choreographers. There are also a number of companies that are considered collectives in which company members all contribute and perform works of the group. The Oberlin Dance Collective in San Francisco is one such group.

From the more traditional modern dance companies have sprung a wealth of other modern dance choreographers and companies. Although some closely reflect the characteristics of their mentors, many have made dramatic departures. Whole new genres of thought and movement have come into prominence, such as the postmodern choreographers, many of whom departed in some fashion from Merce Cunningham's company and work.

To take our somewhat restrictive definitions further, postmodern is only one part of the experimental movement. Other experimental artists such as Pilobolus have taken off in a very different direction.

Martha Clarke and Robert Barnett, both original members of Pilobolus, have moved further with their experimentation in the modern dance form. In 1978, Ms. Clarke decided to leave Pilobolus and with Felix Blaska, a renowned director of his own internationally recognized French company, created an experimental project. They were joined shortly thereafter by Barnett and Crowsnest was founded. The company made its debut at the 1979 American Dance Festival. Crowsnest has proved to be a successful as well as an unusual collaboration between three unique theatrical personalities.

Their intention was to develop a blend of theater and dance that would be exciting, emotionally as well as visually. Now after four years this particular combination of physical daring and evocative, dramatically oriented movement has produced a body or work unrivalled in richness and psychological complexity; and Crowsnest has truly established itself as one of America's most unusual dance companies.

The Chicago newspapers said, "The greatest pleasure and satisfaction that dance can inspire is attained through a performance that disturbs the audience's passivity, stretches its imagination and intellect, and stirs its emotions. That was the extraordinary impact that Crowsnest achieved in its Chicago debut."

Crowsnest will make its Carmel debut on Sunday, Dec. 5, as part of the continuing Carmel Festival of Dance Series. All seats are reserved for the 8 p.m. performance which will take place in the Sunset Theater located at Ninth and San Carlos in Carmel. For more information, please call the director's office 624-3996.

Backgammon

How do you play it?

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You, White, roll 5-4 in the diagrammed position. How do you play it?

Most players would move two men from the midpoint, leaving a blot on White's 9-point. Most experts believe in Hit and Split tactics. You hit the Black blot on your 1-point and split the men on Black's 1-point by moving one of them to his 5-point.

The idea is to keep your opponent busy while you try to break away from his 1-point. When you put him on the bar he must use half of his roll to come in, and he is therefore less likely than usual to hit the blot you station on his 5-point.

What if he hits the blot you leave on his 1-point? You're quite willing to start that man over if that will improve your chance to make his 5-point. With a man on the bar and men on his 1-point and 5-point, you can make his 5-point with any five, with any four except 6-4 with 3-2 and 2-2. The odds are 7 to 5 in your favor. If you leave the two men on Black's 1-point, you can make his 5-point or 4-point only with 4-4, 3-3 or 2-2; and the odds are 11 to 1 against you.

Would you like to have Alfred Sheinwold teach you how to play backgammon? A 12-lesson booklet will be on the way to you when you send $1.00 plus a stamped, self-addressed, No. 10 envelope to Backgammon, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1000, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.

FESTIVAL OF THE TREES

IMAGES '82, is the title of a liquid cast glass sculpture by glass artist Randy Strong which will be on display Sunday, Dec. 5 at the Walter/White Fine Arts gallery, San Carlos and Seventh, Carmel. There will be a reception for the artist from 4-6:30 p.m. at the gallery.

Poured and blown glass exhibit opens in Carmel

An exhibit of new works in poured and blown glass will open Sunday, Dec. 5 with a reception from 4 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at the Walter/White Fine Arts Gallery, Seventh at San Carlos Carmel. Berkeley glass artist Randy Stuart will be present for the reception.

Walter/White Fine Arts is a gallery dedicated to exhibiting the works of the finest contemporary glass artists in the world, focusing on the new American "Studio Glass-artists" and the best contemporary wood designers from the western states.

Many of the artists showing at Walter/White are represented in the permanent collections of the finest museums across the country and around the world, including the Smithsonian, Metropolitan, Corning, Toledo, Tokyo, Kyoto, Kunsthandverkan, and the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

The large audience of collectors and public supporters has caused numerous public expositions in Germany and Japan and many traveling tours, as well as magazine articles in publications such as Life, New West, Sunset, Horizon, the New York Times and hundreds of books.

Brendan Walter, gallery director at Walter/White Fine Arts, gave a lecture and slide show at the Monterey Museum of Fine Arts, this past month, using Randy Strong's studio and glassblowing art as the technical subject of the presentation. He demonstrated the skill Strong has achieved in his worldwide studies of the rare art of glassblowing. Pieces of Strong's blown forms as well as the new cast series will be on display through January 10 at the gallery.

Porcelain 'Lady Godiva' highlights new collection

Carmel residents will have an opportunity to meet a director of the Cybis Porcelain Studio during a holiday preview Friday, Dec. 3 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Allen & Company, Carmel Plaza shopping center.

The new collection, composed of 13 sculptures, portrays a variety of themes ranging from the drama and power of Richard the Lionheart to the innocence and charm of "A.P.," the Harp Seal pup.

One highlight of the new collection is Lady Godiva, a portrait of the centuries-old legend. Clad only in her long hair festooned with garlands of lace and the delicate handmade roses for which Cybis sculptures are known, she is mounted on a white horse wearing a gold-embellished robe.

Also included among the new sculptures is the long-awaited Cybis nativity set entitled "The First Christmas." Done in the style of Leonardo da Vinci, to whose work the art of Cybis has been compared, the first three figures in the series — Mary, Joseph, and the Child — include the careful attention to detail for which Cybis sculptures are known. Additional sculptures will be added to the grouping annually.

Cybis sculptures are also noted for their whimsical imagination, and there are several perfect examples in the new collections. Sir Cuthbert, the Carousel Giraffe, is the most recent addition to the ever-popular Cybis Carousel Collection. Sir Bailey, the Unicorn Colt, has been added to the Cybis Fantasia Collection.

The Cybis Studio was founded by artist Boleslaw Cybis who came to this country from Poland in 1939 to paint murals commissioned by his government at the World's Fair. Unable to return to his homeland after the outbreak of World War II, Cybis chose to remain in this country, founding an artists' studio in Trenton, New Jersey, to create fine porcelain art in the fashion of the great old-world studios he had known during his youth.

Sculptures created by Cybis are in major collections throughout the world, including The Vatican, Buckingham Palace and The Smithsonian Institution.

To reserve invitations, phone 625-3746.

MPC chorus and band to present Yule concert

The Monterey Peninsula Chorus and the college's Concert Band will perform a joint Christmas concert Sunday, Dec. 5 at 3 p.m. in the MPC Music Hall.

The annual event will feature traditional choral music during the first half by composers such as J.S. Bach, Donizetti, Purcell, and Handel, plus selections of Afro-American spirituals and Renaissance music.

Director Sal Ferrantelli will lead the chorus in addition to feature performances by the High School Honor Ensemble, a group of local high school singers he has chosen and worked with recently. Solo performances will be featured throughout the program.

The MPC Concert Band, under the direction of Greg Janusz, will take over the second half of the program with a marimba and xylophone trio doing Serenade for a Picket Fence, the bossa nova styled Lyric Dance, and Prelude Siciliano and Rondo featuring sloist Steven Clickard on trumpet and flugal horn. Also included on the band's program will be Beethoven's Egmont Ovetrture and two concert marches, Anparito Roca and Little English Girl.

The concert will finish with traditional Christmas carols involving both musical groups and the audience as well.

free and open to the public. For further information, phone 646-4063.

ABERYSTWYTH HARBOUR, Wales, is the title of a watercolor painting by W. F. Stone, Jr., which will be on display Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 4-5 at Village Artistry Gallery, Dolores Avenue between Ocean and Seventh, Carmel. The gallery will hold a reception for artists involved in their new exhibition from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. both days. The public is invited.

Watercolors and fabric art exhibited at Village Artistry

The Village Artistry Gallery will hold a holiday show and open house Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 4-5 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Nancy Freeman, fabric collage; W. F. Stone, Jr. and Miguel Dominguez, watercolors are the three featured artists.

Nancy Freeman's fabric collages utilize texture and pattern in unique and imaginative ways using an applique technique. Freeman illustrates childrens' books with this unique medium and has completed commissions for Crocker Bank, San Francisco Magazine, Sunset, Los Angeles Times, and Granny Goose potato chips, among others.

Miguel Dominguez has participated in more than 40 group and one-man exhibitions, and has been the recipient of many awards. Using a dry brush technique and wet on wet technique, he is known for his delicate watercolor interpretations of nature. The California landscape is the dominant theme for the accomplished paintings of this Carmel artist.

W. F. Stone, Jr. is a familiar name on the Monterey Peninsula. Stone is known not only as an artist, but also as an art teacher at Carmel High School. He begins with a line drawing, using a fineline felt pen, then adds watercolor washes to achieve his unique style.

The holiday show also includes works by many of Village Artistry's artists and will continue through the month of December. Village Artistry is at Dolores Street between Ocean Avenue and Seventh Street. For further information, phone 624-3448.

Publisher/author to speak at MPC

The Monterey Peninsula College english department will sponsor a free poetry reading by author and publisher George Mattingly Monday, Dec. 6 at 8 p.m. in the Humanities Building, Room 201, MPC campus, 980 Fremont, Monterey.

Mattingly will read a selection of his works from his book of poems entitled Breathing Space. In addition to his writing, Mattingly is a graphic artist and has been a publisher for such well known authors as William Burroughs and Anselm Hollo.

Mattingly will also give a lecture on the subject of prose-poems Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 11 a.m. in the MPC Humanities Building, Room 201. The public is invited. For further information, phone 646-4063.

Deck The Hall

Deck the hall with boughs of holly
Fa la la la la. la la la la.
'Tis the season to be jolly.
Fa la la la la. la la la la.
Don we now our gay apparel. Fa ...
Troll the ancient Yuletide carol. Fa ...

Fast away the old year passes. Fa ...
Hail the new, ye lads and lasses. Fa ...
Sing we joyous all together. Fa ...
Heedless of the wind and weather. Fa ...

O Come All Ye Faithful

O come. all ye faithful.
Joyful and triumphant.
O come ye. O come ye to Bethlehem.
Come and behold Him.
Born the King of Angels.
O come. let us adore Him.
O come. let us adore Him.
O come. let us adore Him.
Christ the Lord.

Sing. choirs of angels.
Sing in exultation.
Sing. all ye citizens of heaven above;
Glory to God in the highest.
O come let us ...

Yea. Lord. we greet Thee.
Born this happy morning.
Jesus to Thee be glory given.
Word of the Father
Now in flesh appearing.
O come let us ...

O Come All Ye Faithful

(Latin)

Adeste. fideles. Laeti triumphantes.
Venite. venite in Bethlehem;
Natum videte. Regem angelorum.
Venite adoremus. Venite adoremus.
Venite adoremus Dominum.

Dantet nunc Io! Chorus angelorum.
Cantet nunc aula coelestium.
Cloria. Gloria in excelsis Deo.
Venite adoremus. Venite adoremus.
Venite adoremus Dominium.

Jesu. tibi sit gloria.
Patris aeterni Verbum caro factum
Venite adoremus. Venite adoremus.
Venite adoremus. Dominum.

White Christmas

I'm dreaming of a White Christmas
Just like the ones I used to know.
Where the treetops glisten
And children listen
To hear sleigh bells in the snow.

I'm dreaming of a White Christmas
With every Christmas card I write.
May your days be merry and bright.
And may all your Christmases be bright.

White Christmas (French)

Oh! quand j'entends chanter Noël
J'aime à revoir mes joies d'enfant.
Le sapin scintillant.
La neige d'argent.
Noel! mon beau rêve blanc.

Oh! quand j'entends sonner au ciel
L'heure où le bon viellard descend
Je revois tes yeux clairs. maman.
Et je song a d'autres Noel blancs.

Silent Night

Silent night. holy night.
All is calm. all is bright.
Round yon Virgin Mother and Child
Holy Infant. so tender and mild
Sleep in heavenly peace.
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night. holy night.
Shepherds quake at the sight.
Glories stream from heaven afar.
Heavenly hosts sing. Alleluia.
Christ. the Savior. is born.
Christ. the Savior. is born.

Silent night. holy night.
Son of God. love's pure light.
Radiant beams from Thy holy face.
With the dawn of redeeming grace.
Jesus. Lord. at Thy birth.
Jesus. Lord at Thy birth.

Silent Night (German)

Stille nacht. heilige nacht.
Alles schläft. einsam wacht.
Nur das traute. hoch heilige Paar.
Holder Knabe im lokkigen Haar.
Schlaf in himmlischer Ruh.
Schlaf in himmlischer Ruh.

Stille nacht. heilige nacht.
Hirten erst kund gemacht.
Durch der Engel Halleluja.
Tont es laut von fern und nah.
Christ der Retter ist da.
Christ der Retter ist da.

Stille nacht. heilige nacht.

Christ. in deiner Geburt.
Christ. in deiner Geburt.

Away In A Manger

Away in a manger. no crib for a bed.
The little lord Jesus laid down his sweet head.
The stars in the sky looked down where he lay.
The little Lord Jesus asleep on the hay.

But little Lord Jesus no crying He makes.
I love Thee. Lord Jesus. look down from the sky.
And stay by my cradle till morning is nigh.

Be near me. Lord Jesus. I ask Thee to stay
Close by me forever. and love me. I pray.
Bless all the dear children in Thy tender care.
And take us to heaven. to live with Thee there.

Angels We Have Heard On High

Angels we have heard on high.
Sweetly singing o'er the plains.
And the mountains in reply
Echoing their joyous strains.

Gloria in excelsis Deo.
Gloria in excelsis Deo.

Shepherds. why this jubilee?
Why your joyous strains prolong?
What the gladsome tidings be.
Which inspire your heavenly song?

Gloria ...

Come to Bethlehem and see
Him whose birth the angels sing;
Come. adore on bended knee.
Christ. the Lord. the newborn King.

O Christmas Tree

O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thou tree most fair and lovely.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thous tree most fair and lovely.
The sight of thee at Christmastide
Spreads hope and gladness far and wide.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thou tree most fair and lovely.

O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thou hast a wondrous message.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.

Thou has a wondrous message.
Thou dost proclaim the Saviour's birth.
Good will to men and peace on earth.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thou hast a wondrous message.

O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Wie treu sind deine Blätter.
Du grünst nicht nur zur Sommerszeit
Nein. auch im Winer. wenn es schneit
O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Wei treu sind deine Blätter.

O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Du kannst mir sehr gefallen.
O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Du kannst mir sehr gefallen.
Wie oft hat nicht zur Weihnachtszeit.
Ein Baum von dir mich hocherfreut.
O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum
Du kannst mir sehr gefallen.

O Christmas Tree (French)

Noble sapin. Roi des forêts.
Tu braves la nature.
Quand dès l'automne comme un regret
Les bois perdent tous leurs attraits
Toi. beau sapin. Roi des forêts
Tu gardes ta verdure.

Constance est ton emblème;
Tes feuilles vertes.
Hiver. ete.
Enseignent la fidelite.
A toi sapin. Roi des forets.
Je dedie mon poeme.

Joy To The World

Joy to the world. the Lord has come.
Let earth receive her King;
Let every heart prepare Him room.
And heaven and nature sing.
And heaven and nature sing.
And heaven. and heaven and nature sing.

He rules the world with truth and grace
And makes the nation prove
The glories of His righteousness
And wonders of His love.
And wonders of His love.
And wonders. and wonders of His love.

NOTICE OF DEATH OF K.W. TITUS AND OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE CASE NO. P 27019

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate of K.W. Titus.

A petition has been filed by Olga M. Titus in the Superior Court of Monterey County requesting that Olga M. Titus be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

A petition for community property determination pursuant to section 650 of the Probate Code is joined with the petition to administer the estate.

A hearing on the petition will be held on Dec. 23, 1982 at 9:30 a.m. in Dept. 3 located at 240 Church Street, Salinas, California.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should either appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court or present it to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 700 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire prior to four months from the date of the hearing noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file a request with the court to receive special notice of the filing of the inventory of estate assets and of the petitions, accounts and reports described in section 1200 of the California Probate Code.

CASA VASQUEZ NEAR OLD JAIL

Casa Vasquez, at 546 Dutra St., Monterey, is now the address of the Monterey Park and Recreation Dept. Originally, though, it was the home of Dolores Vasquez, sister of the notorious bandit Tiburcio Vasquez, and by a quirk of fate, situated behind the old jail. Vasquez was familiar with both structures. He often hid out at his sister's house while the sheriff scoured the countryside for him.

No. 18 Lighthouse*, is the title of one of Patti Jacquemain's color woodcuts included in her show To Port and Starboard, which will be on display Monday, Dec. 6 at the Marjorie Evans Gallery, Sunset Center, Carmel.

Woodcuts on display at Sunset Center

The exhibition entitled To Port and Starboard, consists of works designed and executed on board the good ship Lollipop while sailing up and down the east coast.

Jacquemain received her B.A. in painting from the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1964, worked in mosaics for awhile and returned to UCSB and earned her M.F.A. in printmaking in 1974. Since that time, she has worked primarily on woodcuts. After purchasing the Lollipop, a CYS-44 sailboat, the artist and her husband sailed the east coast from Key West to Cape Cod exploring the many coves, inlets, and byways along the way.

The varying moods of nature at sea are captured in the color woodcuts with titles such as Low Tide, South Wind, Hatteras, Still Water, and A Place Forgotten. To achieve delicate, sensitive colors, Jacquemain often uses up to 12 or 14 separate plates, one for each color.

While at sea, the ship's salon was her studio. This marine environment authenticates the subject matter of the prints. The artist actually experienced the storms and gray days as well as the stillness and calm. She saw abandoned docks and buildings along the shore and the wild-life tenants of these places.

The exhibition is a collection of 27 titled works. For further information, phone 624-3996.

Concert will benefit Amnesty International group

Flutist Ray Fabrizio will join with pianist Katie Clare Mazzeo in a benefit performance Friday, Dec. 3 for the Monterey Peninsula chapter of Amnesty International. The concert will be at 8 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 501 Eldorado St., Monterey.

The duo will perform works by J.S. Bach, Poulenc, Kuhlau, Hue and Kennan.

Fabrizio is the principal flutist for the Monterey Symphony Orchestra, and has appeared extensively in solo performances on the west coast. He has also performed and recorded in Europe and Mexico.

As founder of the Julius Baker Flute Workshop in Carmel Valley, Fabrizio is active in organizing master flute classes.

Pianist Katie Clare Mazzeo has made appearances in Europe and on the east coast, as well as on the peninsula. She has also performed with the Crown Chamber Players of the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Mazzeo studied with Arthur Schnabel and Nadia Boulanger, and is a member of the Community School of Music faculty.

The performance will benefit the Monterey Peninsula chapter of Amnesty International. The group is working to secure the release of individuals who have been imprisioned by their governments for the non-violent expression of their political or religious beliefs.

Tickets are $5 and are available at Do Re Mi Records in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, or at Bookworks, Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove. For further information, phone 624-7855.

Autograph party at The Thunderbird

The Thunderbird Bookshop will give an autograph party Sunday, Dec. 5 from 12:30-2 p.m. for James D. Houston to celebrate the publication of his new book Californians.

The public is invited. The Thunderbird Bookshop is in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel. For further information, phone 624-1803.

Baer poster on sale to benefit Big Sur Land Trust

The Big Sur Land Trust has announced a new, limited edition poster, "Hope for the Earth." Its composite image was created as a gift especially for this project by Carmel photographer Morley Baer.

Morley Baer is recognized as one of the nation's finest landscape and architectural photographers. Awarded the Medal for Photography by the American Institute of Architects, Morley Baer is currently creating a major work on the California coast to be published by the Sierra Club.

The Big Sur Land Trust has worked with coastal property owners since 1978 to secure the preservation of more than 4,280 acres of Big Sur. The proceeds from this poster will support the continued work of the Land Trust. Copies of the poster may be purchased at $15 each from selected galleries and from the Land Trust's office, Suite 309 of the Monterey County Bank Building, 3785 Via Nona Marie, Carmel, or by mail through Post Office Box 221864, Carmel CA 93922, for $15 each plus $3 for postage.

The public is invited to a poster signing party with Morley Baer and Trustees of the Big Sur Land Trust to be held at the Friends of Photography Gallery, Sunset Center, San Carlos and 8th, Carmel from 12:30 to 2 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 5. Refreshments, courtesy of Monterey Peninsula Winery and the Bagel Bakery, will be served.

A LIMITED edition poster of this image Hope for the Earth by Carmel photographer Morley Baer will be on sale to benefit the Big Sur Land Trust. A poster signing party will be held from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Dec. 5 at the Friends of Photography Gallery, Sunset Center.

Troupe Crowsnest to perform at Sunset Center

The innovative dance company Crowsnest, will perform Sunday, Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in Sunset Center, Carmel, as part of the Carmel Festival of Dance.

Their intention was to develop a blend of theater and dance that would be exciting emotionally as well as visually. Now, after four years, this particular combination of physical daring and evocative, dramatically oriented movement has produced a body of work unrivaled in richness and psychological complexity. Crowsnest has established itself as one of America's most unusual dance companies.

Le Monde of Paris has said of Crowsnest, "This dance is truly an art of the imaginary which startles the audience and opens the doors of dreams."

Tickets for the performance are $8.75 and $7.75. All seats are reserved. For further information, phone 624-3996.

CARMEL HIGHLANDS

Unparalleled...

BLUE MEDITERRANEAN

Designed and built in 1920 by an artist, this glorious 4,+ sq. ft. villa stands on a 1.5 acre cypress-covered hillside overlooking the white waters of POINT LOBOS. Recently restored and exquisitely furnished with French antiques, it offers 4 bedrooms, 4 baths - 1 with Carmel stone fireplace. The living room has a 20 ft. limestone fireplace, a replica of one in a European chalet, and the open beamed ceilings soar upward 26 ft. Terraces, decks, stone walkways, lovely landscaping complete the romantic elegance of this yesteryear experience. View it between 1 P.M. and 4 P.M. Sun. but call prior for the variety of ways to acquire title. 625-4100, HARRIETTE. Reduced by $225,000 to $975,000 with terms.

OUTLOOK POINT

Outlook Drive takes off from Carmel Valley Road, about a half-mile east of Highway 1, under an assumed name. It starts as Rio Vista, turns into Canada Drive, then winds on up the northern hills as Outlook to the very top. And that's where you find this house.

It's an architectural tour de force. From a low flying plane its shape looks like a cross with 4 equal arms. Inside, it seems to be built about an octagonal stairwell which drops down from the entrance gallery. You enter on the second level, cross the Mexican tiles which cover many of the floors, and then the fun begins.

Everything points up. Windows on all sides — in living room, kitchen, bedrooms and baths — are tall and narrow, many coming to a Gothic peak. Though the space measures over 2650 square feet, there isn't a "square foot" in the house. All is angles, eccentric roof lines, oblique corners, oddly planed ceilings, ups and downs that sustain continuing interest.

The views are sensational: the sweep of Carmel Bay, Pt. Lobos thrusting seaward, long descending canyons forested in pines, a backdrop of mountains to the south. Every room looks out, yet every room is a personal sanctuary. The house is a continuing experience, changing with the sun, the wind, the fog — a companion and playmate of nature.

In literal terms, there are 3 bedrooms, 2 up and 1 down; 3 baths, each an experience in itself; a living room that reaches to the horizons; a kitchen that magazines would feature; breakfast room for a poet; downstairs den with a second fireplace and views the low flying plane could only equal; garage, storage and spaces yet to be explored. Everything is in place: gas and electric ranges, double ovens and warmdrawer, refrigerator, freezer, disposal, carpeting, drapes, special fixtures. A very special residence, on a half-acre. $595,000.

This Year Give Yourself Carmel

And...

... Twisty streets threading past fragrant pines, gnarled oaks and seabreeze-sculptured cypresses...and...waves surging shoreward trailing manes of spray to curve in green translucency before cascading into snowy surf along our mile-long crescent of silvery sand, where, breathing pure, pure air, you can walk with your dog in sunshine or sunset glory.

And...

... Quaint shops tucked away in courtyards and tempting you with wares from around the world as well as the creations of local craftspeople... and...other sophisticated shops featuring haute couture clothing for ladies and the very finest tailoring for gentlemen, also imported footwear and sports gear...and...restaurants serving exotic foreign foods, tasty American cookery, fish captured that morning in the blue, blue Pacific.

Also Give Yourself...

... programs by world-renowned musicians presented at out cultural center by the music society, chamber music group, county symphony and Bach 'Festival...year-round little theatre, summertime plays and free Sunday afternoon performances at our outdoor theatre ...and...over two centuries of history centered about Carmel Mission Basilica where you may still worship as you can, too, in the friendly churches of other denominations, all with choirs that lead us to joyous melodies at our community sing at Christmas when we also carol with our high school students at the lighting of our town tree.

And...

... Fascinating neighbors who have lived interesting lives in many countries...and...clubs and organizations...and, especially...Town House, a meeting place where older residents are welcomed for tea, holiday parties and programs... and...a wide variety of life enrichment courses provided, for a small fee, by the Carmel Unified School District, and which embrace creative writing, foreign languages, outdoor sketching, and physical fitness.

Give Yourself, Too...

... Picnics at Point Lobos Reserve with its spectacular coastline...or hiking in cool canyons and sunny trails in Carmel Valley's Garland Park, or both in any of three state parks along the scenically magnificent Big Sur Coast...and... wilderness hunting and fishing in Los Padres National Forest.

And...

... Golf on world-famed courses, and tennis, and sailing, and riding along forest trails or the wave-packed sand of the beach...and...a library where you may browse through magazines by a fireplace, or consult a cordial staff ever happy to help you find the book you need for your pleasure or research...and...if you are housebound, bring you a selection of reading material.

And...

... a city government that jealously guards the enchanting village character of Carmel, provides neighborly police protection and a fire department with trained personnel who man the Red Cross ambulance prepared, at no cost to you, to take you, or your loved ones, to one of the most beautiful and efficiently staffed hospitals in the United States.

But Above All...

... give yourself time to enjoy the good life in Carmel and a fireside to sit by when soft sea mists steal inland...and...as to where that will be, whether in a holiday home, year-round residence, condominium or cozy cottage, we will be most pleased to help you find your heart's desire, just tell us your requirements while sipping a cup of coffee in our office... and...we pride ourselves on being an old-fashioned real estate firm stressing diligance and integrity.

Sweaters make great gifts

THE SWEATER CORNER, Dolores between Seventh and Eight, Carmel, has this comfortable hand made Irish Fisherman's sweater that is very popular on the Monterey Peninsula.

This handsome bulky knit sweater has a rich tradition beginning with the Irish fisherman whose families were identified by there own personal sweater pattern. The family patterns were handed down through generations with no pattern recorded, only taught and remembered by the Aran Islanders off the coast of Ireland.

Each stitch is symbolic; some representing fishing ropes and nets. Called "Aran Jerseys" in Ireland, the fisherman knit sweaters are renowned for their beautiful patterns and consistently superior quality.

The Sweater Corner is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekends.

'Wearable art' at Ornamentique

CONNIE WEARS A coat designed by Naomi Goto and John Marshall of Sacramento for Ornamentique, her Carmel store which features "wearable art." These artists work together with Naomi sewing the pieces of fabric and John hand painting the fabric.

John lived in Japan and studied the centuries old tradition of fabric dyeing, the art of katazome. It is a meticulous process of hand painting similiar to Batik, but using a rice paste rather than wax, and paper stencils.

Ornamentique features unique one-of-a-kind clothing and accessories. They are located in the Mission Patio, Mission between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel.

Elegant jewels at La Renaissance

LA RENAISSANCE Jewelry was established in 1974 on Dolores between Ocean and Seventh Street, Carmel, by Mario A. Agacanian, who recently opened an additional shop, La Reine Jewelry, at the corner of Dolores and Sixth (the old House that Jack Built).

Mr. Agacanian serves the community with integrity and expertise, creating elegant designs in both carving and fabrication for the discerning customer. An example is this 14 karat yellow gold free form design ring with a nine milimeter pink rose cultured pearl for that lucky Christmas recipient.

La Renaissance offers a complete line of jewelry in platinum, 14 and 18 karat white and yellow gold plus repair service on the premises and hand engraving. Your diamonds can be set in a ring of your choice while you wait!

They are open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Visit Ron's for yule cheer

RON'S LIQUORS, San Carlos and Seventh, Carmel, is the place to shop for all your holiday cheer. Ronna Pollacci (pictured above) displays a bottle of Canadian Club that is already designed to place under the tree this Christmas.

Ron's Liquors also has spirits and mixes that go just right for the holidays including traditional drinks like Tom and Jerry, and Old Crow whiskey.

Ask Ronna about the punch bowl sets that are available. She will even tell you that there is free ice and free delivery on special orders. And there's one thing they won't even charge you for — great service!

Cheese Shop for tasty holidays

THE CHEESE SHOP in the Carmel Plaza shopping center, lower level, features holiday gift boxes especially packed and delivered by U.P.S. Or custom pack your own from thousands of fine products including wine duffles, Coulommiers cheese, fine wine from Jekel Vineyards and delicious ideas from Biscotti Bakeries.

Ask the friendly staff about sending your friends and relatives their Monterey Jack cheese anywhere in the United States this Christmas. And don't forget the Cheese Shop can fill your catering needs for that large or small holiday party you're planning this season.

Celebrate Christmas at The Crossroads

CHRISTMAS AT THE Crossroads shopping center, Carmel, promises to start the holidays off with a bang. Saturday, Dec. 4 at 4 p.m. Santa Claus will arrive by horse and antique buggy. The Christmas lights will be turned on and carols will be sung by Camerata, a well-known San Francisco choir conducted by Dr. Bruce Lamott, harpsichordist with the Carmel Bach Festival.

Sunday, Dec. 5 the festivities will begin at 1 p.m. with the singing of traditional and modern Christmas carols by the Carmel Youth Ministery Choir. The Robert Louis Stevenson School Chamber Singers and Brass Ensemble will present their Christmas program from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Carmel Dress Shop for fashions

MINDY FARRELL of the Carmel Dress Shop, looks fashionable wearing this Lilli Ann dress with Ultra Suede trim belt. A Christmas gift any woman would be happy to find under that evergreen Christmas morning.

Distinctive clothing with classic flair is the "hallmark of clothes" women find at the Carmel Dress Shop — that translates into beautifully tailored suits and dresses in luxurious yet practical fabrics.

Mindy's dress is wrinkle free, and is machine washable. It's a garment that is elegant enough to be seen on all occasions.

Also featured in the shop are Castleberry Knits, non-wrinkle polyester, Camel hair jackets, leather wear, Cynles sweaters, and fashionable coats for cold weather.

Visit the Carmel Dress Shop, Ocean Avenue at Dolores, Carmel. Open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays, and from noon to 4 p.m. Sundays.

Fads and Frames for graphics

FADS AND FRAMES, at the sign of the smiling worm, in the Del Monte Shopping Center, Monterey, has hundreds of beautiful frames to select from for that beautiful sketch or fine painting you have.

And even if you don't have something to frame, Fads and Frames has many graphics and paintings for shoppers to choose from, including some outstanding prints of late model racing cars for yours or your dad's den.

Fads and Frames also has a selection of cute and cuddly teddy bears in their shop window, and while you are waiting for your favorite piece of art to be framed, matted, or fitted with glass...you can hug a teddy bear. Courtesy of Fads and Frames.

Wrap it up at Signature

SIGNATURE OF CARMEL, at San Carlos and Seventh, has many fabulous wraps, but the one Marilyn L. Delaney is modeling was the belle of the ball at the recent Charity drive for the Capital Children Fund Museum in Washington, D.C.

The hand made suede and mohair laces with natural fox was modeled at the affair by Washington newscaster Barbara Harrison on the 6 and 11 p.m. news in Washington.

Signature has many hand made wraps like this one that are perfect Christmas gifts for the woman who really has everything. Also in this elegant shop are designer wraps, sweaters, and all the accessories including imported Japanese silk pants and snug but beautiful woolen caps.

See this fabulous wrap at Signature. Tell Marilyn you saw it in the window and that you'd like to tell your husband about it for that special Christmas gift — for yourself.

Arctic Bay trading post

THE ARCTIC BAY Trading Company, at The Crossroads shopping center in Carmel, is the exclusive representative of the "Hudson Bay Company".

All the goods you'll find at Hudson Bay you can find at the Arctic Bay including Canadian and American artifacts, including such fantastic buys as authentic Eskimo stone carvings, ivory, scrimshaw, Eskimo parkas, and original Indian art.

Ask Donna, the manager, about her vast supplies of wearables such as sweaters, or warm bedspreads and blankets.

Santa Claus didn't have to travel far from his home in the North to get to The Arctic Bay; you don't have to travel very far either, for this trading post is in our own backyard. The Crossroads is at Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel.

Easy shopping at Surf N'Sand

SURF N' SAND, Sixth and Junipero, Carmel, always has affordable gifts for the holidays. Featured this month are great selections of wines, glassware, and punch bowls for that traditional holiday drink.

In their Christmas display case find yuletide Christmas mugs and straw reindeer to dress up that festive corner, and for the small fry, that cuddly stuffed animal, or that miniature doll for under the Christmas tree.

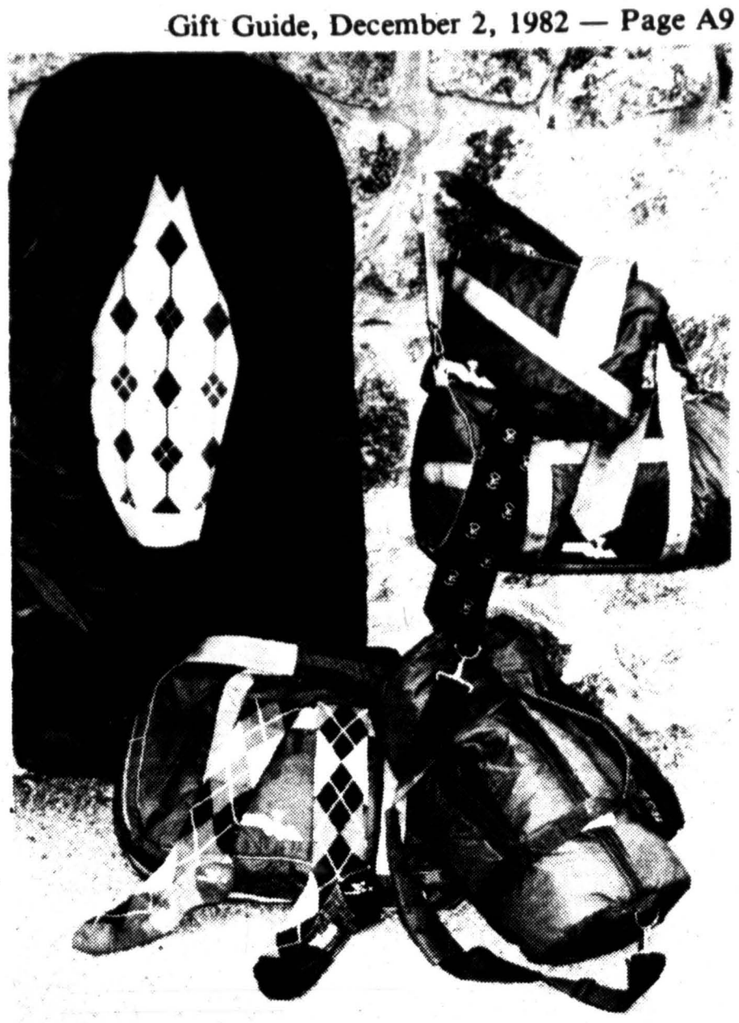
Find the sporty gift

FOR STYLE AND comfort while lounging, shopping or jogging through the holidays, try an outfit from L.A. Seat Covers, made of 100 percent pre-shrunk cotton. They come in every color of the rainbow, from petite sizes to size 44, and are also available in terry material, from the Village Sports Shop, in the Doude Arcade, between Ocean and San Carlos, Carmel.

Village Sports Shop carries high quality sportswear for the active woman, from lines including Geoffrey Beene, Izod, R.R. Sportswear, Carushka Body Wear, Seven Star Shoes, and Ralph Lauren. They also carry a full line of accessories including socks, belts and umbrellas.

Free gift wrapping is offered. Stop by the Village Sports Shop and find clothing for your lady to get physical in!



Tee up at Pebble Beach Golf Shop

IF YOU SEE SANTA Claus carrying a set of lightweight stain resistant cross-ribbed nylon luggage around, he didn't get it at the North Pole from his elves.

If you look closely, one of those items mentioned above has the famous Pebble Beach logo emblazoned on it, and he got it at the Pebble Beach Golf Shop.

K.G. bags come in sets such as the Cosmetic Kit, the large, roomy Garment Bag, and the Brief Case — all very handy to travel with, and you just know old Saint Nick won't have any trouble stuffing the pliable luggage in his sleigh come Christmas eve.

He may have trouble explaining to Mrs. Claus how he got the Official U.S. Open golf ties, by Talbott, and the brightly colored plaid socks. But, doesn't every golfer deserve to splurge on himself after delivering all those toys?

Santa knows a good thing, and so will you when you visit the Pebble Beach Golf Shop, at the Lodge at Pebble Beach. Open seven days a week from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tell them Rudolph sent you!

Isadora's for beautiful clothes

THE NEW IN shop for fashion in The Crossroads shopping center, Carmel, is Isadora's. Isadora's can beautifully clothe the fashion conscious woman with lines that include the best in New York and west coast fashion designs as well as those imported looks from Italy and France.

A softly draped jumpsuit, so right for the holidays, is modeled for Isadora's by Dotty Murphy. The wrap, of course, is mink, and it makes just the right fashion statement for the season.

The personal attention given to serving each client by manager Helga Sefton or her capable staff makes shopping at Isadora's a pleasurable experience for all. Stop by Isadora's in The Crossroads, Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel.

Dick and M'Lady Bruhn classics

DICK AND M'LADY Bruhn have gathered forces this holiday season to entice you into some elegant evening wear like models Janice Aliotti and Jon Ubick are wearing.

Janice is wearing a wool jacket and skirt with a blouse with frills at the neckline, touched off with a slim-waisted cumerbund.

Jon is attired in a black velvet sports coat by Halston of 100 percent cotton coupled with a plaid wool cashmere vest. He tops it off with a fine formal shirt from Denmark by Bosweel, and grey slacks with the European fit by Rene Jordan.

Dick and M'Lady Bruhn, northeast corner of Ocean and San Carlos, Carmel, will be open special hours before Christmas for those late holiday shoppers.

Brittany's for elegant look

SUSAN FABER wears this elegant Wedgewood St. Johns Knit, from Brittanys, as she gets ready for the Christmas holidays. Beautiful designs in dresses from sizes two to 18 can be found at Brittanys, in The Crossroads shopping center, Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel.

Brittanys, always a mark of elegance in fashion, has all the trademarks to choose from, including: a complete line of St. Johns Knits to size 16 in both dresses, suits, pants, long skirts, blouses along with fine apparel from Jones of New York, White Stag, Kollection, Weather Vane, Givensky, Pier Be' and many others. Ask Susan or Louis about the Miriam Haskell accessories.

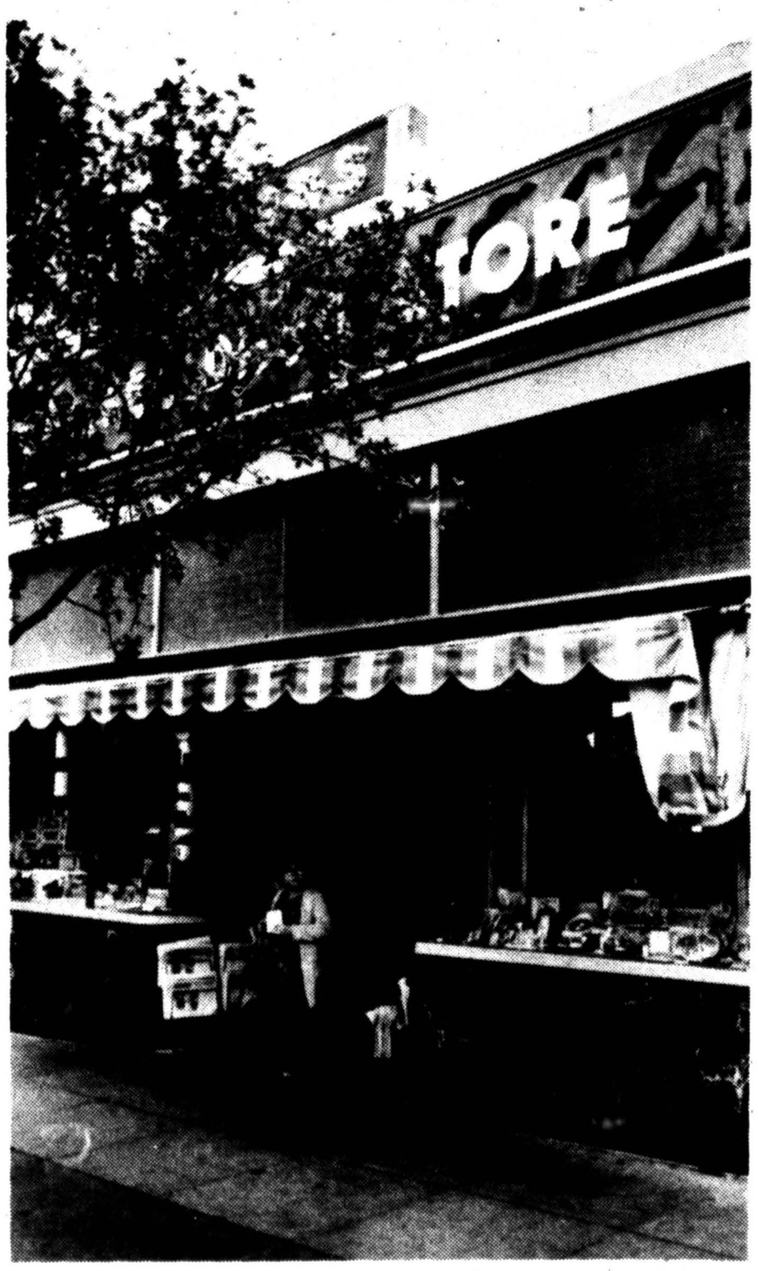
Brittanys is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Pappagallo for cheery gifts

ANNETTE ALCOCER, manager of Pappagallo, looks neat in apron and matching potholder. Cheerful looking gifts can be obtained this holiday season at Pappagallo in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel.

On hand are ladies shirts by J.G. Hook and Sero, and matching Pappagallo red shoes with scotch plaid bows, also available in navy and taupe.

A gift that will stay on your dresser for a long time are petite picture frames and matching jewelry boxes with coordinating grosgrain ribbon. Also available (see photo) are scotch plaid matching belts from Ginnie Johansen. Many other Christmas gifts are featured at the shop for Pappagallo in The Barnyard. Open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Most major credit cards accepted.



Carmel Drug Store has everything

THE CARMEL DRUG Store, Ocean Avenue and San Carlos, has everything for Christmas under one roof — Christmas cards, wrapping paper and ribbons plus elegant gifts for everyone on your list.

They offer fine cosmetics and perfumes for that special female, beautiful hair ornaments, men's toiletries, children's toys and much, much more.

Select a Marielle gift of beauty

MARIELLE's SALON de Beaut'e, at The Barnyard in Carmel, introduces Personal Services for personalized make-up and consultations for beautiful wardrobe adornments.

This Christmas treat yourself to a Therapeutic Body Massage, or an expert manicure, or have one of two professional comotologists guide you to Marielle's full service programs designed to make every woman feel that "she is being pampered."

And pampered you will be, because Marielle's has individual treatment for each person who enters her shop. Care is taken to make sure your best features are accented, your hair style compliments your facial structure and that every last detail is perfect.

Save at Brad Whitney

ONE OF THE best things to come to the Monterey Peninsula in the line of sportswear for men and women is Brad Whitney. This month they celebrate their 25th anniversary. And again, their success has resulted in Brad Whitney passing out tremendous bargains to their customers.

Bob Reade, Sr., founder and president of Brad Whitney Sportswear Manufacturing Company, wears an all-wool tweed sportcoat with color coordinated gaberdine slacks and button down oxford shirt — proving that Brad Whitney people stand by their product.

Scandia Down Shop for warm holidays

A UNIQUE DECORATOR look is revolutionizing the American bedroom with a warming effect. The new Scandia Down Shop at The Crossroads introduces its winter collection of down comfortables, including pillows and bedding accessories.

Sleeping in down has been popular in Europe for centuries. Down provides natural and lightweight insulation to maintain body warmth. And before you go to sleep Christmas eve with your new Scandia Down Shop blanket make sure you keep one ear above the covers, or you may never hear Santa saying "Merry Christmas, and to all a good night's sleep!"

Harriet Duncan — hallmark shop in fashion

Pernie McMahon, owner of the Harriet Duncan shop, offers many labels and designs to choose from including makes such as Alpinit, Hanro, Pier'Be, Rain-Chee-Tah, and Abe Schrader. They carry beautiful garments in sizes six to 18. Don't forget to slip on a blouse by Adelaar, or a design by "Dorce"!

Ask Pernie about gift certificates, and their courtesy gift wrap service. The shop is yours to exlore from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Distinctive leatherwear for winter

LEATHER CLOTHIER, 113 in The Crossroads shopping center, Carmel, features this natural French full-skin rabbit jacket modeled by Irene Keith. The dyed wheat hood with inside turtle neck is dacron filled for extra warmth. The design by Penache is a perfect Christmas gift along with the lamb suede gaucho pants to match by designer Karen Silton. And to top it all off, there are leather trimmed knit wool gloves by Aris.

Leather Clothier specializes in distinctive leatherwear for men and women, featuring American's best designers including ladies suede and leather separates to mix and match. They also have classic coats and blazers, and gift items such as fun rabbit furs, sheepskin or luxurious fox and mink jackets.

Waiting for your selection are basic sports coats for men and the latest short styles from reversible suedes to the traditional bomber style flight jacket. And for that great football game in Pasadena this New Years, a stadium coat in sheepskin.

Before you look anywhere else, check out the selection of handbags, luggage and accessories — all in the finest quality leather. Leather Clothiers is open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays. They will ship merchandise anywhere, and accept most major credit cards.

Lanz offers special approach

WELCOME TO THE world of Lanz. It is a look, a concept, and a special approach to design wear. This Christmas, Lanz of Carmel has this special short velvetine jacket in Santa Claus red, with black braid trim. The model's skirt has a slit on the side to show off a pert ankle. The white blouse is in polyester with a perky ruffled treatment. This Christmas outfit is available in four colors.

Other dresses at Lanz include the velvetine look in prints or solid colors, or with textured fabrics to fit your holiday look. Sizes range from three to 13.

Complete accessories are available including purses, hats, scarves, and other decorative adornments. Lanz's knit sweaters will warm up your Christmas morning wardrobe.

Visit Lanz weekdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the holidays.

Charnel's for the luxurious look

If you're looking for lacy apparel for that special lady, Charnel's has peignoirs,negligees, camisoles, slips, robes, teddies, bustiers, garter belts and intimate apparel from the most prestigious designer lines.

Port of Carmel offers unique gifts

Pictured above are some examples of their distinctive gifts: a holiday goose in solid brass, in life size proportion; a menagerie of sculptures by California artist Sandy Brue; air-tight ceramic cannisters in beautiful decorator colors to adorn any kitchen and create a beautiful and economical way to store food; and solid brass license frames embossed with the logo of your favorite car. If you hurry they'll engrave anything you want in a personalized license frame.

From strawberry baskets to candy bags, actual paper bags electroformed in bronze make unusual gifts. No two are alike. They come accented with ribbon, from the ordinary to the elegant, and they are sure to bring cries of joy when found under the tree Christmas morning.

Come, view, and inhale the experience of shopping at the Port of Carmel, in the Doud Arcade, San Carlos between Ocean and Seventh, Carmel.

Young and old love Santa at Carmel Plaza

REMEMBER YOUR first visit with Santa? How big and kindly he was, that Santa. Well he's here this year at Carmel Plaza, seeing all the children in his adorable little Victorian home.

So, even if you don't have a small child to bring along with you, do drop by for a nostalgic moment of your own, it's a part of the holiday cheer.

Santa's at home Monday through Friday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., at the Carmel Plaza shopping center, across from the Devendorf Park, on Ocean Avenue, Carmel.

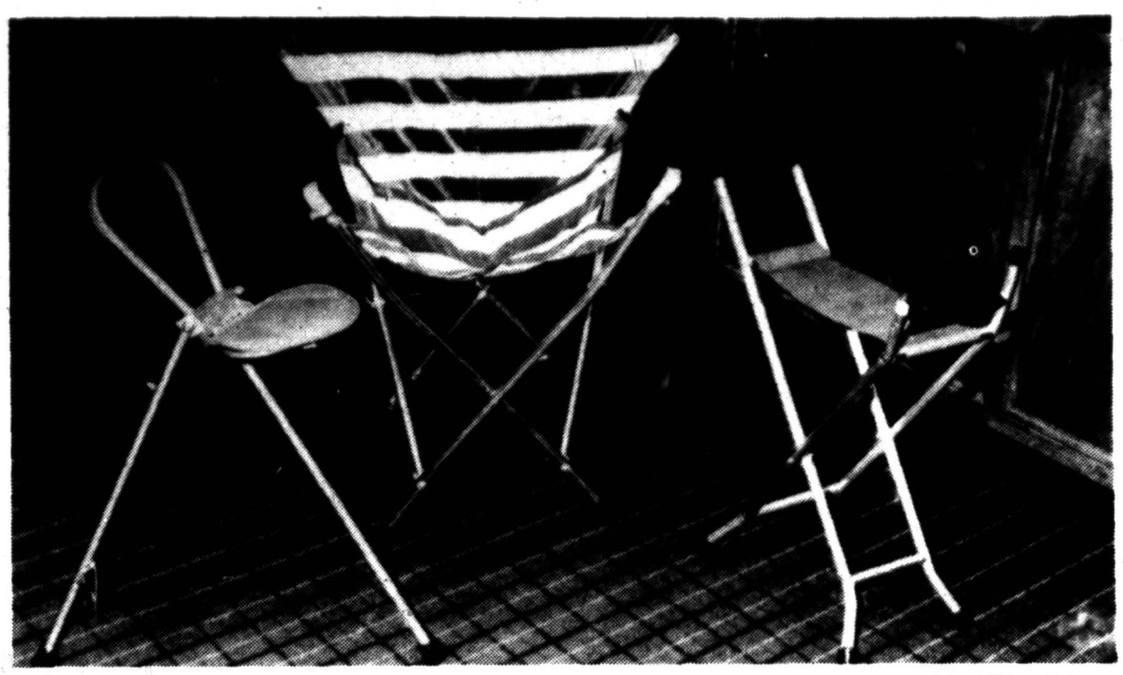
Jewel Boutique for custom designs

FOR ALMOST four and one half years, ever since The Barnyard was constructed, the Jewel Boutique has been doing custom work for their clientele right on the premises.

Manager Movahedi said his shop specializes in jewelry design masterpieces. And for gems — Jewel Boutique boasts the largest amber selection in Carmel.

If it's a watch you want this Christmas ask Movahedi about his fine selection of leather watch bands. The Barnyard is at Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel. The Jewel Boutique is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.



Find a seat at Derek Rayne

DEREK RAYNE LTD., Ocean Avenue, Carmel, has always supplied Peninsulians with the latest in seasonal fashions. This year besides the great suits, slacks, tweeds, wool, and gaberdines, Derek Rayne Ltd., wants to introduce some innovative portable cane chairs.

This is truly a Christmas gift that will make the walking weary really happy. Remember, when the Bing Crosby Tournament comes around next Spring and you are in the multitude watching old Arnie Palmer make that next sand trap shot you could be sitting in one of these folding, and neatly stowable portable cane seats.

Just another Derek Rayne way of saying "We like to see you in our fashionable clothes, but you have to sit down sometime?"

Guilder Ha'Penny for stoneware gifts

IF YOUR PLANS include construction of a kitchen or bath Guilder Ha'Penny offers unique handcrafted basins and sinks by Eric Norstad. This stoneware is made with raw materials fired at high temperatures creating special qualities of earth tone glazes as well as functional superiority, beauty and warmth.

Also offered is a stoneware collection by Eric Norstad containing dinner and bread plates, cups and saucers and luncheon plates and soup bowls. All excellent gift selections for Christmas. Visit Guilder Ha'Penny at Mission near Fifth, Carmel.

Tobacco Company — toy shop for men

THE TOBACCO COMPANY in The Barnyard shopping center, Carmel, is not just a tobacco and smoke shop, but a toy shop for men too!

For the Christmas male in your life, what could be better than wrapping up a set of darts, or a chess set, or a stack of poker chips for a rainy evening.

Give that special man a Bari pipe from Denmark, or a Savinelli, order him a box of cigars and wear the paper ring to remind him where they came from!

The Tobacco Company on the second deck of The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, carries many out-of-town newspapers, including The New York Times and the Daily Racing Form. It is a complete street cigar store, but far above street level. A must stop, no matter which way you climb.

Jewelry Designs grown in value

JEWELRY DESIGNS at The Barnyard, is a shop where holiday shoppers can find that certain "one of a kind" article to give to that one of kind love of your life.

To fulfill his customers' needs even further, a certified gemologist is in residence. See Sherman at his Jewlry Design shop Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Most credit cards are accepted.

twenty three days to savor the spirit of the coming Holiday season ...to pick and choose from the array of colorful gifts ...to share the excitement of little children when they see the Plaza's Christmas wonderland for the first time ...and to enjoy those memorable moments they'll spend with Santa in his adorable, tiny Victorian home. Make plans now to bring the family to Carmel Plaza to see our delightful thirty foot toy trimmed tree in our lovely gardens ...and take a moment to visit Santa, too. He's in his little home from 1 to 3pm every week day; From 10 to 12am and 1 to 4pm Saturdays and Sundays 'til Christmas.
